Juvenile Water Circus, With Breath-Taking Stunts, Thrills Onlookers

BOLD YOUNG RAFTSMEN ON THE MERRIMACK

Oh, Mr. Ericsson the Lucky,
He sailed the salty sea.
He was dauntless; he was plucky—
And, by codfish, so are we!

Of Sir Francis Drake you know well,
He had nothing, though, on us.
We're the Francis Drakes of Lowell,
And we do not give a cuss!

Without a quake or shiver,
We dare a watery death.
And when we go down the river,
We'll bet you hold your breath!

Perhaps the fearless youngsters,
Who on improvised rafts knocked together from a few discarded planks valiantly seek the centre of the Merrimack river near Central bridge, don't sing the above song. But if they did, they wouldn't be exag-gerating one little bit, say we.
Especially that last line, there, "We'll bet you hold your breath!" Anyone who wants to bet that the writer holds his breath when he gazes at some of the stunts pulled off by Lowell youngsters on the Merrimack, well, he's going to win that bet,
thassall.

Every day scores of pedestrians, passing as they cross bridge that leads to Centralville, and spend many thrilling moments draped over the railing observing with open mouth
the hairbreadth feats performed upon,
or in, the waters of the swift-flowing stream. Ringling's circus never had a look-in. Even the high dives aren't lacking. A few days ago a group of boys supplied that feature by taking the leap from the railing of the bridge into the water below.

But for a real, prolonged blood-curdling act, the youthful voyagers
shown in the photograph indubitably corral the palm. Sometimes their rafts consist of no more than two narrow boards, which tilt dangerously, as,

fully clothed, the debonnaire raftsmen fight the current.

One reckless young Eddie Polo recently paddled his frail craft deliberately into the maelstrom of waters which flowed from one of the mills
that line the shore. While the raft rocked and whirled in the eddying
surfy water, he feverishly steered so as to avoid utter shipwreck and not improbable drowning. But throughout his exploit, he preserved a countenance of the most angelic serenity, and when he finally was hurled with his raft out of the danger zone, he placidly proceeded to paddle into it again. Yes, brethren and sisters,
"We'll bet you hold your breath!" is right.

the bridge rail and watch the little brig feet tensing and relaxing as they clutch the boards of their craft, balancing with nice precision. Flimsy paddles direct the course of the rafts, keep them from being overturned in the sudden rushes of water which sometimes develop.

Another bold trick recently introduced was the construction of a huge swing, attached to a tree which overhung the bank. A push, and many feet in the air. Yes, bo. The "Francis Drakes of Lowell" is correct!

IT HAPPENED IN DRACUT

Men Posing as Federal Officers Take Ten Cases of High-grade Whiskey

Ten cases of high-grade whiskey, valued at more than $900, was "seized" by four young men posing as federal officers from a Dracut Centre resident early this week. It is rumored, and the arrest of the quartet late today is predicted. According to the story, which is said to emanate from authoritative sources, the incident is only one of several similar cases where the same group, or another group, under pretence of being representatives of the United States government, staged "raids" on the residences of people of this section.

It is intimated that in most, if not all cases preceding the one in question, which is said to have occurred on Monday of the present week, the victims of the "gyp" feared to protest against the intruders. They were not sure that they would be able to convince the authorities that they acquired the whiskey or other liquor in a legal manner. It is claimed, and consequently remained "mum," causing repeated depredations.

However, in the latest instance of this daring form of larceny, it is understood that a complaint was lodged with the police when it was discovered by communication with the federal authorities that the "raiders" were in reality impostors. Warrants have been issued. It is said, and the arrests are expected in the immediate future. If not some time today. Four men are said to be implicated in the exploit, although it is understood that not all participated in the actual entrance of the Dracut Centre residence. Part of the group, according to the report were otherwise connected with the affair.

Government Authorized to Negotiate Treaty of Peace With Washington

BUDAPEST, Aug. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Unanimous approval of the peace resolution adopted by the United States congress, early in July has been voted by the Hungarian national assembly.
The government is authorized to negotiate a treaty of peace with Washington.

The peace resolution passed by congress and signed on July 2 by President Harding declared the state of war between Germany and the United States and Austria-Hungary and the United States at an end. The resolution reserved to the United States and its nationals, all rights they might be entitled to under the armistice and the treaties of peace. The treaty of Trianon, the Hungarian peace treaty, became effective July 25 by formal acceptance of exchanges of ratifications on the part of the allied powers and Hungary, and was declared law in Hungary by publication of the text on Aug. 2.

Motorboats Also Pressed Into

Liquor Smugglers

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—Armed with rifles, a detachment of state police today started patrolling the waters in the vicinity of Detroit with motorboats to guard against liquor smugglers from Canada.
The troopers, 75 in number, arrived here from Lansing last night and reported to Charles P. Campau, Detroit representative of the Michigan public safety commission, who has declared open warfare on the liquor smugglers.
The arrival of the state police followed reports that efforts were being made to flood the United States with intoxicants from Canada, as the result of the court ruling in Windsor that the Ontario temperance act does not forbid their export.

BUY WASHINGTON PARK

City Council Promises to Acquire Land for Playground Purposes

The municipal council will purchase Washington park and convert it into a playground. This decision was reached at a conference held this morning between four members of the council and a committee representing the Lower Highlands Improvement association in the mayor's reception room at city hall. The city fathers present at the conference were Mayor Thompson and Commissioners Donnelly, Mar-chand and Salomey. No definite time was set for the purchase of the land, but the members of the committee were assured by the city officials present that they were all in favor of the proposition and inasmuch as there was no opposition to the project the deal would be put through as soon as the city's finances warrant it.

Representing the Lower Highlands Improvement association at the conference were Thomas J. Fitzgerald, president of the association; Rev. Joseph A. Denis, O.M.I., assistant pastor of Notre Dame de Lourdes church; Rep. Victor F. Jewett, Rep. Adolphe Be-nard, Smith Adams, Joseph Provost, Louis Lord and Joseph Beauparlant.
Supt. Kernan of the park department was also present.

PROBE PRICES OF ARM- CHAIR LUNCH ROOMS

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—A state-wide investigation of armchair lunch rooms, with especial reference to prices charged and quantity and quality of food served, was announced today by the commission on necessities of life.
The commission said complaints had been received from a number of cities.
In some instances, it was alleged that price cuts were followed by a reduction in the size of the order or lowering of the quality of the food.

RAIDS BY LIQUOR AND VICE SQUADS

Extreme activity on the part of the liquor and vice squads was shown yesterday evening, when a number of places in the city were raided, and a quantity of mash was discovered. Officer Francis Moore of the vice squad, Officer Michael H. Winn of the liquor squad, and Officer Goggin participated in the raids, two of which were on Sul-folk street, one on Adams street, and one on Fenwick street. At one Adams street residence four barrels of mash were found, together with part of a still. Two barrels of mash were discovered on Suffolk street at one place, but the other revealed nothing, as did the Fenwick street place. As none of the completed product could be unearthed in any instance, no seizures were made, despite a rigid search of the premises in each case. Chases, however, are said to be in the hands of the officers, which will result in more fruitful searches in the near future.

ADVANCE TIPS ON FALL FASHIONS

SKIRTS WITH OR WITHOUT
What? Hoops! Also Long or Short, They're Right for Fall

BY MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Here's the long and short of it—sartorially speaking.
As the new fall gowns walked forth at New York's recent fashion show—everybody gasped, "But I thought skirts were going to be worn longer this year!"
They are. But not so long that you will trip over them.
Fall fashions suggest full skirts the very first thing. The advance displays of coat and skirt combinations show straight-lined skirts which get shorter in proportion to the shortness and fullness of the coat. The new flare box coat is accompanied by a straight skirt—not very much longer than last year's models.
But with the slightly fitted in models—like the Hickson rust velvet trimmed in Caracul—the skirts are much longer.

Spanish Ideas
Old Spain does more than suggest an influence in evening wraps. Richly embroidered Spanish shawls (which by the way, come from China or the Philippines) envelop the smart woman. But for those who are Spanish-shawls, Green has designed a Wanda wrap which has all the suggestions of Sevilla.
One almost wants to serve castanets with this long-fringed, subtly fashioned strip, wrapped about the figure. The small hat is distinctly Spanish in form, too, as are many of the fall chapeaux.

Lucille Compromises
Lucille has compromised between the long and short in dinner gowns. The embroidered flame net falls from the neck in its shimmering fullness far on the ground. The lace embroidered tiny, wrist-strapped, edged with a cable, suggests the hippy hoop skirt. A head-dress harmonizing with the frock, is worn with many evening dresses by Lucille models.

But while the full skirts suggest different ideas by Hickson and Joseph, the Hickson model of gray tulle is wired over the hips while Joseph's afternoon gown of black tulle is almost like the old-fashioned hoop skirt, full around the ankles.

U. S. AND PARIS WONT MIX IN GOWNS
By Newspaper Enterprise
NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The hand of the American dressmaker and the taste of the American woman are fatal to the Paris gown.
That's the verdict of Samuel Morris Livingston, importer of women's apparel with headquarters in Paris.
Gorgeous French models are spelled, Livingston says, when bills of expensive lace and ornaments are cut off to make the gown at the American purse.
American women favor straight lines in their gowns, Livingston says, and hence American gowns lack the femininity of the French models.

SEVEN BIG LINERS SAIL TODAY
NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Seven transatlantic liners sail today for European ports—the Olympic for Southampton, Carmania for Liverpool, Orbita for Hamburg, Nieuw Amsterdam for Rotterdam, Kronland for Antwerp, Dante for Genoa, and Savelle for Naples.
Among their passengers are J. P. Morgan, going to England to join his wife and son, who sailed last week; Harry Boland, secretary to Eamon de Valera, going to Dublin to aid his chief in the negotiations with the British government; Lieut. Commander R. E. Byrd Jr., going to England to join the naval cutter which will bring the huge British-made dirigible ZR-2 to America, and H. Percival Lodge, sailing to take up his post as American minister to Serbia.

PHOTOGRAPHIC CONTEST
Already several pictures have been received at the headquarters of the photographic contest being conducted by the chamber. It is evident from the work already submitted that there are some real photographers in Lowell, and that they are sending every effort toward carrying off one of the big prizes. Industrial photographs, pictures of parks, rivers and other beauty spots, action pictures and in fact any pictures taken in this city will be accepted for the contest.

MORTALITY OF LOWELL
For the Week Ending August 13, 1921

PARIS, Aug. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—The allied supreme council decided today that the international famine relief commission, which was agreed upon at Wednesday's session, be composed of three delegates from each country represented in the council, including also the United States and Belgium. The commission will be unofficial in character and will collaborate with Herbert Hoover, head of the American relief commission, and the international Red Cross in the Russian relief work.
Ambassador Harvey told the supreme council that he would communicate with Washington on the subject and that the American members of the commission would be appointed as soon as possible.
In a resolution adopted by the supreme council the congress of the United States is urged to act in aid of financial relief for Austria. The resolution expresses the desire of the council that the United States pass as soon as convenient, the measure in this connection that Ambassador Harvey informed the meeting was still pending.

NAVY DIVERS AID SEARCH FOR BARREL OF GUN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13.—A navy diving crew at the request of Sheriff Tranger of Los Angeles, has been ordered to aid today in the ocean side search for the missing barrel of a shotgun, the rusty stock of which was turned over to District Attorney Woolwine here by a beach comber, near Santa Monica canyon mouth. Officials declare their belief that it is part of the weapon used in the slaying of J. Belton Kennedy, broker. Kennedy was shot near his summer cottage in Beverly Glen, eight miles inland, Aug. 5. The district attorney announced that he had "reason to believe" that the shotgun butt was part of the weapon used in the shooting. Arthur C. Burch of Evanston, Ill., former college friend of the dead man and now under indictment for the murder, is said to have been identified yesterday by a motorist who says he encountered Burch in the roadster, which is said to have been in the glen on the night of the shooting.

Dabs of Powder and Paint Make 'em Look What They Ain't

AGNES MARC, A PARAMOUNT PLAYER. SHE SHOWS HOW SHE MAKES HERSELF LOOK OLD WITH GREASEPAINT, BUT THAT AIN'T THE HALF OF IT. DEARIE, MANY OF THE STARS USE IT TO MAKE THEMSELVES LOOK YOUNGER.

BY JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Unless you have visited a movie studio you can hardly imagine what a grotesque, every place it is.

Here comes a hideous monster with skin as yellow as ochre, eyes set in lines of blue, and an ugly yellow wig that grates upon the sensibilities. You are wondering if she is to appear as an apparition in a nightmare episode in the picture, when someone says, "I want you to meet Miss So-and-so."

You gulp a bit and try to hide your embarrassment because this very self-woman is one of the best known stars and now that her name has been spoken you readily recognize her.

But why all this dreadful makeup? It's this way—the studio lights cause strange effects and the capricious eye of the camera registers these effects.

And so in order to appear on the screen as she appears in life the actresses must use makeup that gives her the appearance of her antithesis.

Yellow grease paint is used by actresses to give the appearance of a white skin. Flesh tints are used by actors to give that "ruddy, outdoor complexion."

Blonds use a blue line about the eyes to throw the eyes into relief. Brunettes use a black or brown line to achieve the contrast.

Screen makeup affords many opportunities for camera deceptions. A bald spot covered with dark grease paint will not show in the film. Double chins are masked off in the same fashion.

face into relief by masking her neck with dark grease paint and blending the face tint just below the chin.

Exceptional care must be taken in the adjustment of a beard as the camera is merciless in showing sharply contrasted lines.

In a production in which a number of bearded men appear the director often orders the men in the cast to grow natural beards. This was done in "The Tanager," a Paramount picture.

In that same picture Jules Cowles appears as a one-eyed man. Instead of employing a black mask he stuck fallers mending tissue over his eyes and concealed the edges with grease paint. This gave the eye the appearance of having a natural film.

Players make up neck, shoulders, arms and chest whenever they are exposed before the camera. For the lens would otherwise show them of different hue.

The director must also constantly keep in mind the photographic qualities of various colors. A royal robe is supposed to be purple, but if purple were worn it would appear gray in the finished film. Blue appears as white and red as black.

So it is easy to see why "little dabs of powder, little dots of paint help to make a movie queen look like what she ain't."

Several weeks ago this writer called attention to the exploitation of the trade name of a breath lozenge in a title that followed a superfluous scene in "The Conquest of Canaan."

Exhibitors in many cities wrote to the producers' offices to criticize the injection of what seemed to be advertising in the film.

The producers now say that the scene and the subtitle referred to have been eliminated from all prints of "The Conquest of Canaan." They assert that the scene and title were injected in the play simply to get a laugh.

However, the fact remains that many pictures suffer from the injection of scenes and subtitles which add nothing to the story, yet appear of advantage to the manufacturers of nationally advertised articles. These instances are not confined to any one company's films.

"The Love of Jade," Pauline Frederick's next.

"The Secret of Butte Ridge" is the first of Tom Santschi's new series of two-reel westerns. Ruth Stonehouse plays opposite him.

Add Theda Bara to the list of film players who are picking up pin money during the dull season by making personal appearance tours.

Norothy Orlin, who weighs less than 50 pounds, has the leading role in "Chicken Hearted," a one-reel comedy.

Elliot Dexter is to have the leading role in "Grand Larceny," written for Goldwyn by Albert Payson Terhune. Claire Windsor will be his leading lady.

Hayward Velie, director, says there are ten rules for making pictures. "The first one is entertainment," he says. "I have forgotten the other nine."

COUNTERFEITERS WORK
BEHIND PRISON BARS
CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 13.—A counterfeiting plot hatched at the Ohio state penitentiary at Mansfield by prisoners who carried out their work of manufacturing and circulating bogus bank notes for months within prison walls, was revealed by United States secret service agents here yesterday.

The plot was discovered by a tip from a "trusty."

AFTER "SUITE CLUB" PROMOTERS
Superintendent Richmond Welch, who recommended a "suit club" to local people who were "cypsel" thereby, is now hot on the trail of the culprits. He visited Boston recently and made a recommendation to Alderman Brickley of that metropolis that the promoters of the scheme be apprehended. The chief says that Brickley guaranteed the proposition.

ARRESTED FOR HAULING DOWN BRITISH FLAG

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Much secrecy is maintained in local official naval circles with regard to the information that comes from Bar Harbor, Me., that three young men, members of the American Naval Radio station there, on Saturday morning last, lowered a British flag from its staff, where it floated in honor of a British ship in the harbor, and placed it under an American flag on a flagpole nearby.

The three young men were placed under arrest by the naval authorities at Bar Harbor, immediately following the incident, and the matter having been reported to the commandant of the Charlestown navy yard, which has jurisdiction over the Maine station, the men were on Monday taken to Boston.

Neither Lieutenant Stova V. Edwards, commanding officer of the Naval Radio station at Bar Harbor, nor Admiral Cleaves of the Charlestown navy yard, who is in charge of the First Naval district, would either affirm or deny the story last night. It is believed on credible authority that the incident has been reported to the navy department at Washington and that action will be taken there with regard to the disposition of the charges against the three young men of the navy.

Quarter Century Ago

From the old Sun:
"MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—The St. Hyacinthe chamber of commerce today adopted a resolution approving the action of the national banks in charging a discount of ten per cent. on all American money and warning the people not to accept American money under any circumstances."

That sounds strange considering the fact that the American dollar is now honored in all the markets in the world. Quarter of a century ago, some countries claimed that American currency would be depreciated by the change to the silver standard, or as they termed it, cheap money.

Tax Rate $15
In 1896, the tax rate was $15 which was the lowest reached for seventeen years or from 1879.

Under a democratic mayor the tax rate of Lowell for 1896 is lower than in many years.

The assessors announced this morning that this year's tax rate will be $15 per thousand which is remarkably low and the result of a democratic government.

It is needless to state that real estate owners are made happy by the announcement.

The rates for six years have been as follows: 1891, $15.60; 1892, $16.80; 1893, $16.40; 1894, $17.40; 1895, $18; 1896, $15. The rates for subsequent years are: 1897, $17.40; 1898, $18; 1899, $18.60; 1900, $18.80; 1901, $18.00; 1902, $18.60; 1903, $20.40; 1904, $20.00; 1905, $20.20; 1906, $19.80; 1907, $19.40; 1908, $20.40; 1909, $21.00; 1910, $19.80; 1911, $18.00; 1912, $18; 1913, $18.40; 1914, $21.00; 1915, $20.40; 1916, $21.20; 1917, $23.40; 1918, $23.80; 1919, $26 and 1920, $27.20.

The total valuation of the city in 1896 was $69,301,547 against $69,728,012, an increase of $1,119,950 over 1895. The valuation for 1920 was $122,853,827.

The Knapp Cure Grasse
Many Lowell residents will remember the craze that swept over this and other countries about twenty-five years ago as a result of the alleged cures of nervous diseases effected through the treatment recommended by Rev. Fr. Sebastian Knapp of Germany. It consisted of walking barefoot on the dewy grass in the early morning in the summer time. It is described in the following from The Sun of that time:

"A great deal of interest is taken in New York and other cities of this country in the prospective arrival of Fr. Sebastian Knapp, of Germany, the famous water-cure physician."

"Already Knapp societies have been formed in New York, and several ladies in trying this cure in the public parks there, have been arrested. His cure consists mainly in walking barefoot on the dewy grass in the early morning. This is a specific cure for some kinds of nervous disease; many distinguished people have taken the cure and found relief. Pope Leo the Thirteenth is a member of those who have testified to its efficacy for nervous trouble. Fr. Knapp came to discover the cure by reading a scientific book, which he applied with certain improvements."

"It is expected that his arrival in this country will cause a great sensation because his services will be sought by thousands, inasmuch as he is famous the world over for his cure of certain diseases."

"After Fr. Knapp arrives it will be necessary to remove the signs 'Keep Off the Grass' from Fort Hill park, as undoubtedly many of his real or imaginary patients will be seen treading the grass in the park in the early morning."

An oriental cult that for a time had a branch in this city came to the fore some years later and improved upon Fr. Knapp's cure by having the patients roll on the dewy grass in the nude in the early mornings. That was practiced in Lowell for a time until the patients became somewhat embarrassed by the number of neighbors who became interested in the cure to the extent of watching very closely how it was "taken."

Lowell Seen Through Strange Eyes
Subjoined is a very interesting letter to the old Sun by J. W. Fletcher, son of Marcellus H. Fletcher, the latter a well known democratic worker for many years in Lowell, Mr. J. W. Fletcher was a spiritualistic clairvoyant or expounder of the occult with an office in New York. His services were sought by wealthy ladies who paid him large sums for his counsel and advice on matters past, present and future. The letter:

"The following is a decidedly interesting sketch of some features of Lowell as seen through strange eyes" written by a former Lowell boy now visiting Marcellus H. Fletcher.

"The city has improved greatly in regard to cleanliness, the streets, that is the principal thoroughfares, are especially well taken care of. Whether due to religious motives would be difficult to say. The old adage 'Cleanliness is next to godliness' may or may not be the inspiring motive. Quite more likely that filth was unseemly and unsightly as well as dangerous to public health and that these guardians of humanity's soul realized this and are governing accordingly. Sure it is that few if any of the religious cults compare with Lowell in this direction and—well, there is still room for improvement which will doubtless be apparent as time goes on."

"Now we find this lady, like many other Americans, one of the many leaders in the gay whirl of Parisian life. One can scarcely imagine to see the elegant carriage flashing up the Champs Elysees that the dowager clad in shining silks and glistening with diamonds nodding here and there with a patronizing smile to men and women of note that here in Lowell of all the world is the one place she used to call home. The old friends of early days are forgotten and new associations quite different from those of other days are formed and vast the current of life flows on."

Another fine estate still stands in aristocratic loneliness with its air of solid exclusiveness, the late residence of General B. F. Butler, who as a man was quite as unique as any Lowell ever produced. He rendered great service to the country in its hour of dire distress, to the state when chosen to govern it by unmaking some of the blackest hypocrisies in the memory of man, and as a lawyer he proved his great ability, not to say absolute genius on many occasions. He has joined that great majority, who, it is hoped at least, dwell above the noise and jar of this weary world, and when the impartial historian shall in future years write the story of his life, many a noble battle and determined effort and numberless deeds of kindness will be accorded to his name. All this brings back to mind those old days, never mind how long ago, when Eliza Butler, as she was called, was everywhere admired for her surpassing beauty and affability of mind. Whenever she appeared, whether in Washington or elsewhere, she readily was acknowledged a belle and was much beloved. Time has not dimmed the radiance of those early years and today in her

IS THIS IMPROPER?

Freedom of the screen is at stake in a legal battle over a Pathe News film from which this picture is taken. The girls wore one-piece bathing suits in a swimming contest. New York censors ordered the picture eliminated. Now Pathe News intends to carry legal action to supreme court if necessary to prove the right of films to depict news events.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—China, Spain and Holland have accepted President Obregon's recent invitation to appoint, a commission to meet Mexican representatives and adjust claims for damage suffered by their nationals during the last 10 years of revolution in this country, says a semi-official report.

The United States civil service commission announces an open competitive examination for filling the position of general automobile mechanic in the postoffice service in Lowell, at a salary of $1600 to $1800 per annum.

No written examination is required, but applicants will be rated on their physical condition and experience by their applications.

Full information and the required application may be secured from the local secretary at the postoffice or the district secretary, Customhouse Tower, Boston, with whom the application should be filed not later than August 30.

THE STRAND
A Story of Three Wishes Come True
Headlines Bill the First Half of Next Week

Tomorrow afternoon and evening "The Jack Knife Man," with an all-star cast and big time vaudeville will be shown at the Strand theatre.

Beginning Monday of next week and continuing through Tuesday and Wednesday, "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee," a picture of the Indian war, will be shown at the Strand theatre.

Popular Pearl White in the big part will be featured. In this picture the neglected wife makes three great wishes in a wishing hour. One that she shall become the wife of a millionaire, another that she shall be a famous woman, and the third that she shall know the touch of holy arms. And she gets each one of these wishes. But in ways that are most unusual. The husband who neglected his wife was not, fortunately enough, in love with another woman. He was wholly engrossed with his business, and his wife played an all too small part in his life. "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee" is a serious story, but the story of the sort we might expect Miss White to appear in—the kind where something happens every minute.

"The Man Tamer," with 15-year-old Gladys Walton in the title part, is the second underlined feature for the first part of the week, and it is alive with sensational climaxes. Miss Walton plays the part of a lion tamer, and she enters a cage filled with the big beasts, although, let it be said, a professional trainer is with her. Here is a story that will quicken the pulse.

That master of all oriental actors and the equal of many of the most noted while players, Sessue Hayakawa, will be seen in "Myra Lights a Candle," the latter half of the week. To secure this production much money had to be spent, for New York, at the Capitol Theatre, went by thousands for three solid weeks. It is a poetic love story on a plane quite above much that we see, and the noted actor surrounds himself with a cast that holds noted Japanese actors. Gladys Walton plays the part of the pretty maid who was elevated to the position of a princess. The second feature is "Cheated Love," with Carmel Myers, a great emotional actress, in the leading role. The comedies and international reviews of events will be shown at every performance.

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the coming week a program of popular Paramount pictures has been arranged. The popular screen star Wallace Reid in "Too Much Speed" is the main feature. He stars the role of a man who is starting the round comedian Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle makes up the second feature on the bill. The audience attending the performance of Wallace Reid and Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle is sure to be discovering to their great delight that the warmer it is outside the cooler it is at the popular Paige street playhouse. The popularity of automobile racing stories in which Wallace Reid has appeared several times has resulted in the screening of "Too Much Speed" another original story with the race track as a background. This picture is a continuation of his previous work in the racing game and plans for his wedding with Virginia MacMurrain. While Dusty and Pat MacMurrain are on their way home in a limousine, a rival dealer, whom Dusty had formerly represented in racing events, passing them in a car. Dusty's sporting blood is aroused and he speeds up the limousine and passes his rival but ends in a ditch. MacMurrain is angry and is off the wedding, whereupon Dusty takes the waiting bride and elopes in a roadster. Old Pat follows and at the first small town, both are sent to prison for speeding. Having served his term, Dusty goes to the town of Virginia and plans for his wedding with Virginia MacMurrain. Genial Fatty Arbuckle never fails to please and amuse his audiences and in "Crazy to Marry" his latest Paramount picture he again proves that he is the screen's leading comedian. While operating on his subject Dago Red he suddenly remembers that he has an engagement to be married. He rushes out in an attempt to arrive at the wedding in time. Repairs valued at $205,039,000 were produced in the United States last year. Eighty-three per cent. of all motor cars and trucks in the world are in the United States. Liberia had eight automobiles last year, an average of one to every 250,000 persons. Fifty-five per cent. of all automobiles are registered in towns of 5000 or under. The first automobile supply company was organized in 1900 in St. Louis. Turning the steering mechanism while the car is standing is a strain on tires. Seventeen per cent. of the automobiles manufactured last year were closed cars. More than 500 applications for automobile patents were on file in Washington in September, 1895. West Virginia showed a gain of 61 per cent. in the registration of automobiles last year. The automobile was used for elephant hunting in India as early as 1896. ## LIKES THE GREEK NEWS IN THE SUN

The following self-explanatory letter has been received by The Sun: 21 Gold Street, Lowell, Mass. Aug. 12, 1921.

Editor of The Sun, Dear Sir: Were it possible, I would have come personally to express my thanks and appreciation for what you have done for the Greek during the past.

The Lowell Sun has been of great help to the Greeks of this city. They have always found and will always find it a paper worth while reading. As for me The Lowell Sun has been a daily lesson for eight long years which has led me to a higher standing than I otherwise would have reached.

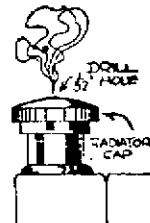

I cannot get along without The Sun. Yours truly, X. VURGAROPULOS.

TEST SPARK PLUGS

In checking to locate a cylinder that is not firing it is well to first check the ignition action. Do this by removing one of the spark plug wires and holding it about 3-16 of an inch from the iron part of the spark plug. If good sparks result, test the plug itself by using a screw-driver as shown in the diagram. If no noticeable difference in the running of the engine results it is apparent that that cylinder had not been firing.

ACTS AS WARNING

A simple means of telling when there is too much heat in the cooling system of your auto is by drilling a small hole in the top of the radiator cap. If the radiator boils a small jet of steam will give warning.

NEW MOTOR BUCKET

A collapsible canvas bucket, which when folded is only 10 inches across and three-fourths inch thick, is handy for motorists. Two gallons of water or fuel can be carried to radiator or gas tank.

BOSTON ROAD DETOUR

A new detour on the Boston road in Chelmsford, was laid out yesterday by the superintendent of streets. Vehicles going towards Boston are now to proceed by way of Acton street or Burdett street to the road leading past the Karp place and coming back onto the Boston road, either by Hall road or at the junction of the Carlisle road near the home of W. H. Shattuck. This detour is being made necessary because of the construction of a new state highway.

READ 'EM TO THE TOTS TONIGHT

In every home where children play there's always a happy half hour just before the sandman comes.

Then comes the time when little children beg for a story. And you have no idea how many thousands of children look forward to hearing of the "Adventures of The Twins," the daily Bed-time story appearing in The Sun.

You may start reading these clever little stories to your children today. Turn to Page 11.

PALM OIL IS GOOD MOTOR FUEL

Belgian engineers have found palm oil, of which Belgium has a large supply in her Congo dependencies, and efficient substitute for mineral oils used in internal combustion engines.

Incentive for the search for a substitute is found in the relative prices of mineral oil and palm oil in Belgium, the former costing $1.40 a gallon and the latter only 20 cents a gallon.

The calorific value of palm oil is from 75 to 80 per cent. of mineral oil. Therefore for a quarter to one-third more must be used to attain the same results.

The experiments, as far as they have gone, show that palm oil works well in certain types of engines, the chief difficulty being that in cold weather palm oil solidifies.

Various accessories have been put on the market, however, whereby the engine is started on mineral oil and switched to palm oil after warming up.

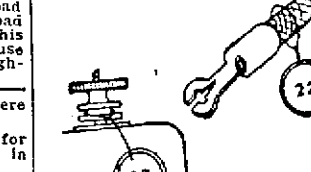

Thus far experiments have been confined to motor boats and tractor engines, but engineers are working on adaptation to the auto engine.

CARVING DESCRIPTIVE OF LIFE OF CHRIST

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—A wood carving descriptive of the life of Christ on which five monks worked for 15 years will be placed on exhibition here Monday. The carving, valued at $125,000, was brought to America by Father Germano Agelles, one of the monks who made it in the monastery of the Brotherhood of the Codemans on Mount Athos, Macedonia.

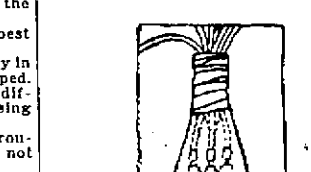

The composition is 25 inches high and 21 inches wide and includes several hundred figures in high and low relief.

WISE TO MARK WIRES

The marking of wires does away with a lot of trouble when wires are disconnected on ignition and lighting systems. The work of putting them back in their proper places is simple if you do as the diagram shows.

TUBE SAVES IGNITION

Keeping the ignition wires dry and safe from short circuiting is one of the troubles the motorist faces when washing the car or during a heavy rain. This can be done, however, by slipping a piece of old inner tube over the wires and distributor and taping down the top so the system will be fully covered.

ANOTHER MILITARY UNIT

New Military Unit Coming

to Lowell—Capt. Mac-Brayne to Quit Battery B

It is reported that another military unit will shortly be assigned to Lowell. The new unit will be known as the Third Mass. Infantry and will be commanded by Col. John D. Murphy of Waltham. One company will be composed of Lowell men and other companies of this regiment will be made up of Lawrence and Haverhill men.

Capt. W. C. MacBrayne of Battery B of Lowell announced to the members in camp at Barnstable yesterday that he would soon terminate his connections with the outfit. He will retire from the service with the rank of major.

STREET CAR SERVICE REDUCTION

The regular fall reduction in street car service will be announced next week by Manager Thomas Lees of the Eastern Mass. street railway company, to take effect in September. Mr. Lees explained today that the street railway has been running a large number of extra cars and putting more cars on practically every line in the city during the summer months when the riding is very heavy. The reduced schedules soon to be announced will simply reduce the numbers of cars in operation, to the regular fall and winter quota.

LOWELL GIRL ON WAY TO THE ORIENT

Miss Elvira M. Braden of Woodward avenue, Pawtucketville, is on her way to China to take up Y.W.C.A. work in the yellow republic. Miss Braden is a graduate of Lowell high school and Lowell Commercial evening school. After occupying a position with the Middlesex trust company she accepted an important position at the North Adams State Normal school where she headed the educational extension division. Last winter she attended the Y.W.C.A. secretaries' training school, with the end in view of achieving her ambition to perform welfare work in the Orient.

She left this city Aug. 4, and proceeded to Montreal. In the Canadian metropolis she was joined by a girl who is to sail with her, but who will be stationed in Japan. From Montreal she journeyed to Toronto and Niagara Falls, and her itinerary also included Winnipeg and Banff. She will go aboard the Empress of Asia and land at Shanghai, where she will be assigned duty in that or some other Chinese city.

SOLDIERS' GRAVES

Lowell's connection with the great civil conflict which, between '61 and '65, kept this nation one and indivisible, is one in which the city must feel an abounding and every-increasing pride. Out of this city went probably more than 3000 men to battle for the cause of humanity and justice on southern fields and seas. History will eternally record that it was three Lowell men who were first to fall mortally wounded in the streets of Baltimore. Their memory will live so long as valor, loyalty and patriotism are held in esteem. It seems almost impossible that the last few surviving members of the armies which made the great adventure and did their part unflinchingly to save and protect the union should, as their steps draw daily nearer the silent unknown, face the journey down to the shores of the river with a realization that there are today in this city a considerable number of the graves of their comrades of the great war, whose last resting-places are unknown, unwept and unsung. Some of them are believed to be resting in graves in what has come to be known as "Potter's field" because it was in the beginning purchased of a potter with the 30 pieces of silver paid to Judas for the betrayal of his lord.

There is now being circulated in a quiet way by members of the Grand Army of the Republic, allied organizations and their friends, petitions which are to be presented to the municipal council asking that the official of the city known as "agent for the care of soldiers' graves," shall be made a permanent official of the city with a small compensation. It is proposed to have the place go to Frank B. Flinders, a former commander of a Grand Army post, who has done invaluable service in locating and marking soldiers' last resting places. Mr. Flinders has been doing this work on his own line and has at his own expense located and had properly marked a large number of soldiers' graves. Much of his work has been a labor of love.

The petition which will shortly go before the municipal council, backed by the united support of many patriotic organizations, will ask the council not much more than $1000 to complete the work. There should be no question of the prompt action of the council on the resolution which is to be presented to it.

PRETTY SOFT

A caravan of 100 people is on its way from Brooklyn, N. Y., to Idaho, where its members have bought farms. They travel in autos and motor trucks, cook on gasoline stoves and camp at night in portable canvas houses. If you could turn the clock back 100 years, you'd see pioneers making the same trip westward in "prairie schooners," wagons drawn by horses or oxen. Those early settlers had a rough life while they were on wheels. And it wasn't much better after they reached their journey's end and built log cabins. Suppose one of those pioneers, with prophetic vision, had said to his neighbors: "I see a caravan traveling west in 1921. Its wagons run without animals hitched to them. Its camp at night, they bring out a wooden box that talks, and sings." Such a seer would have been taken to a doctor—and later to the lunatic asylum. If he persisted in his prophecies. The contrast, then with now, shows you how a century has changed the mode of living in our country. Can your imagination picture the changes that another century will bring?

Compared with the past, we live in an age of ease and comfort. And, our nerves on edge as a result of modern city life, we frequently are dissatisfied with conveniences that only a few generations ago were denied kings. That dissatisfaction is what gives man modern conveniences. It's what will bring more and better ones. Progress is the child of dissatisfaction. You press a button and electricity floods the room. Grandma had to wash the globes and trim the wicks of oil lamps. Her mother patiently made tallow candles, for progress had only begun to conquer the black night. An old Indian chief, shown over New York, was asked what he considered the greatest wonder. He pointed to the spigot from which came running water. It is only a few hundred years since there were no sewers. That caused the frightful plagues of the middle ages. You can count on your fingers the generations that have passed since France had a tax on windows and poor people spent their nights in darkness and foul air. A city is bad enough at times, but when you are inclined to bay the moon too loudly, just consider the hardships you missed by not being born 300, 100, or even 50 years ago. We are making progress, all right in this world. Sometimes it seems discouraging. But the journey, though slow, is ever onward to better things.

LIFTING A BURDEN

The announcement comes that the republican leaders in congress have decided to make a supreme effort in the way of lightening tax burdens. They propose to lift the limit at which an income tax may be imposed on married men from $2000 to $2500. This proposed action, if carried out, will doubtless prove very desirable. The married man bears a heavier burden, ordinarily, than the unmarried. His purchases of heavily taxed necessities are ordinarily greater than are the purchases of those who prefer single blessedness to escaping some of the exactions of the tax collectors.

It is difficult, however, to feel otherwise than that in this latest move of the G. O. P. leaders in congress the mountain has labored and brought forth a mouse. The party assumed power last March with the promise of great achievements in the way of tax reduction. It is to permit married men to pay taxes on $500 less than has been the case in the past. Wonderful achievement!

So far as any reliable indication has yet appeared, congress intends to continue to authorize the annual expenditure of between four and five billion dollars. In other words in time of peace, government is to cost as much as in the days of war.

Much indignation has been occasioned by the high prices charged at restaurants everywhere, including even our own excellent city. To hear some of the plaintive voices one would imagine that the public was helpless in the clutches of irresistible bandits. But the judicious must admit that this is not the case. Certainly all restaurants are not guilty of exorbitant

SEEN AND HEARD

You can't tell very much about your patience unless it has some time been given the acid test.

Somebody said that the fellow who laughs last, laughs best. Wonder if that has anything to do with vacation.

The trouble with some traffic cops is that they have friends who can do little things that the other fellows are not allowed to do under penalty of being taken to the police station.

New One On Him

When a lady who was "burning up the road" on the boulevard was overtaken by a traffic officer and was told to stop, she indignantly asked: "What do you want with me?" "You were going 40 miles an hour," answered the officer. "Forty miles an hour? Why, officer, I haven't been out an hour," said the lady. "Go ahead," said the officer. "That's a new one on me!"

Her Popularity

A graceful story of Mrs. Harding's popularity is going the rounds of New York. It appears that on a recent visit to New York Mrs. Harding attended the first performance of a new play. At the end of the play the young playwright presented to her and she said: "I like your comedy very much indeed, and I shall send all my friends to see it." The playwright made a grateful bow and answered: "In that case, madam, we are going to sell exactly 100,000,000 tickets."

The Poor Author

"The vast hall was a blaze of dazzling light. From the center of the ceiling, almost touching the heads of the guests, hung a magnificent chandelier, fashioned like a huge rose, boasting a hundred gleaming electric bulbs, which cast a wondrous radiance over the great assembly. Every niche in the ornate walls had a glowing bulb and every alcove was a miniature palace of light! It was magnificent! At this point the struggling author dropped his pen and exclaimed: 'This is the best I have ever done!'"

Pretty Good Trick

A wagon loaded with lamp globes had collided with a truck and many of the globes were smashed. Considerable sympathy was felt for the driver as he gazed at the shattered glass. A benevolent old man eyed him compassionately.

"My poor man," he said, "I suppose you will have to pay for them out of your own pocket?"

"Yes," was the melancholy reply. "Well, well," said the old man, "here's a quarter for you. I dare say some of the other globes will give you a helping hand, too."

The driver held out his hat and several persons dropped coins into it. At last, when the collection was over, he ceased, he emptied the contents of his hat into his pockets. Then, pointing to the retreating figure who had started the collection, he said: "Say, isn't he a smart man? That's my best!"

Early Rising

Yes, it is old-fashioned advice. I know, says Dr. William E. Barton, but I believe it is good—that is, the habit of early rising. "Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise." I am not sure about the wealth, but I am certain about the health and the opportunity to learn.

An hour in the morning, before the telephone begins to ring, is worth three hours in the middle of the day, when interruptions are constant, and worth two hours of night study when the brain is fatigued. Let me assume that there is some study in which you would like to become proficient, but which your daily task affords no time for you to pursue. You would like to take a correspondence course in your kind of work. Or you would like to make a study of English poetry, or of Chinese metaphysics, or of Sanskrit, or of political economy. But you cannot do it. You are held down to work. You can do it if you have the will. Rise an hour earlier, and do it while your mind is fresh. But you need the sleep? Cut out the last hour at the movies, or the last hour of yawning, or the last hour of idleness and ineffective work. But it is not cut out that you need the extra hour of sleep. If you put in your night resting, you can spend an hour less in bed and still get more real sleep than many men now get. It is not the number of hours you spend between the blankets that count, but the actual rest and relaxation of the mind. If you favor the night, Mr. Edison may get on with four hours' sleep, but I recommend more. I think the first rule for success in life is to get up in the morning and go after it.

John Miller Dead

John Miller is dead and his junk pile has vanished. John Miller was a farmer two miles northeast of New Cambridge and he was known all over the eastern part of the county. He lived in Dickinson county, as the "Farm Machine Parts Man." Fifteen years ago Miller began buying old machinery at public sale, and in a few years he was a thing put up, provided the machine was knocked down to him at about his second bid, the first bid usually being "a nickel." He had a collection of several acres of his land covered with old machines, running from cultivators and harrows to thrashing machines. There were plows, drills, corn planters, mowers, diskers, corn planters, mowers, harvesters and every other thing that possibly could be used on a farm. The junk pile of John Miller could be seen from the west to the east, and was the talk of the whole county. Probably not a half-dozen machines could be used as they were, and each piece had many good parts, and the farmer from far and near went to John when they wanted to fix up their machines, and the part was always there.

Any piece could be found here that could not be found in the implement houses in Salina. It was the most wonderful collection of farm implements in the state, and except for a few it was wholly worthless except as junk. Junkmen tried to buy it during the war, and men from Kansas City and Denver, Omaha, St. Joseph and other places hearing of the junk pile came here to buy it, but it was not for sale. Miller said he wanted it for his neighbors. There were thousands and thousands of pieces that could be sold at a fair price, but John usually charged a nickel or a dime for a part that would cost you cents to buy in Salina. But John died, and then came the public sale. The old junk pile vanished, and from it there were more than 300 implements and tools. In case was the price as much as $1. The entire collection brought less than $100, and during the war it could have been sold for ten times that much. It is a pity that the metal into war munitions—Salina, Kan., correspondence in New York Herald.

La Belle Dame Sans Merci

I sang you a song of a moonlit lake. Where the pines rise black and tall. But you stopped my song with a petulant little frown. Of your head, and I saw I had made a mistake. That it wasn't your song at all.

I sang you a song of the city's lights. Of the noise and the hurrying throng. Of clamorous days and crowded nights. And the dim, but you frowned, and I paused contrite.

For again I saw I was wrong.

I sang you a song of a castle in Spain. And the song of a treasure shore. And the song one hears in the April rain.

But when I had done, with a shrug of disdain. You commanded I sing no more.

Now listen, love, I'm a patient guy. And I know more tunes than these. And I'll find your song if I have to try. Till my hands are numb and my throat is dry.

But I can't help wishing I knew just why. You're so devilish hard to please.

—Chicago Evening Post.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Are you one of the many who believe that all restaurant keepers belong to the sausage class? If you are, here is happy news which will rid you of this dismal belief. There is an eating-house located in the very heart of Lowell, clean with courteous attendants, and with tables at which to sit rather than more large-armed chairs, where the following breakfast may be secured for the modest stipend of 35c: Omelette with honest-to-goodness cream, a large, well-cooked pork chop two fried eggs, French fried potatoes, coffee that is actually hot, and warm buttered muffins. You don't believe it? Neither did we, until we discovered it in our wanderings. It sounds like a tale of the Arabian nights, we know. But if you are possessed of any detective blood, you can satisfy yourself as to the truth of the above statement at once.

Some things may look as dry as dust but on investigation they may prove to contain a lot of moisture. Take the directory for instance. I saw in one of the Boston papers the other day where a zealous reporter, with nothing better to do, had counted up the number of persons bearing the grand old name "Beer." I forget just what the exact number of Beers was, but it ran up into the hundreds. Glins was even more numerous. Then I read, with a sinking heart and a recollection of the sad days in which we are living, the statement that the Waters outnumbered both the Glins and Beers. It is indeed a dolorous day, with even the directory showing the signs of the times.

A few days ago an alarm was sounded for a dump fire in the Oaklands district. As a result several pieces of apparatus responded, but when the firemen reached the scene of the blaze the fire had been put out. Evidently the party who rung the alarm meant well, but had he used better judgment he would have called the department by telephone and in this manner would have saved several pieces of apparatus an unnecessary run. Quite often a great portion of the department is called out for small fires while one piece of chemical would be sufficient. Residents should bear in mind that every time a bell alarm is sounded it means just as much expense to the city and in many cases this expense can be saved if one uses the telephone instead of the box.

With the close of the Twilight baseball season impending it may be well to stop and ask the question whether the league has justified its being and whether it has lived up to the expectations of the vast crowds of people who have journeyed to the South common every evening to watch the games. Of course the way to fact that such a large attendance has been recorded at the contests proves almost conclusively that twilight baseball has been popular in this city and that it ought to go on as before. It is a period of relaxation both mental and physical to Lowell people and this at a time when such relaxation is sadly needed. It gives the men and boys of the city something to think about and to occupy some of their spare moments with. When a rattling good game is in progress there are no covert crap games going on in nearby alleys and there are no groups of silly young men standing about on the street corners sneaking and casting glances at every girl who passes. Baseball furnishes such young men a more wholesome diversion. And to the regular two-sided citizen who works hard all day and in the evening seeks a man's recreation, there is nothing more invigorating and delightful than a good game of ball. Twilight baseball is indeed a good thing for Lowell and one hopes that it will continue long and become as an institution of the city. There are, however, one or two minor suggestions which if taken well to heart might assist in smoothing the way of the league. All the acting registrar season the pleasure of those fans who love law and order even in a baseball match has been marred by continuous bickering and disputing over the decisions of the umpire. Now it is freely admitted that it is not likely that an umpire in a small affair like a city league will be as wise and as expert as a big league official but it ought to be as clearly understood that the baseball diamond is no place to dispute an umpire's rulings. The league next year should place an umpire on the field with full authority and power to order from the diamond any player who argues with him.

LOWELL CHAUFFEUR'S LICENSE REVOKED

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Aug. 13.—Following an official investigation of the automobile accident of May 19, which resulted in the death of William C. Cogswell of Lowell, the acting registrar of motor vehicles has revoked the chauffeur's license of Joseph W. Achin, of 42 Mt. Vernon street, and has reinstated the license of James W. O'Neill of 35 Chelsea street. The licenses of both chauffeurs were suspended immediately after the accident, pending the disclosure of the investigation. Now the acting registrar has entered a finding that the accident occurred without serious fault on the part of O'Neill, but announced his inability to make such a finding in the case of Achin. Phillip R. Dunbar of 238 Fairmount street, Lowell, has been notified that his operator's license has been suspended by the registrar as a result of his having been twice convicted of operating at a rate of speed greater than was reasonable and proper. The chauffeur's license of Joseph W. Millette of 531 Merrimack street has been revoked as a result of his conviction in the Lowell court August 1 on a charge of operating in such a manner that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered. Emilio A. Jean of 53 Melvin street has been notified that the registration certificate of his automobile has been revoked, and his license to operate suspended, because the acting registrar has reason to believe that he has operated the automobile after drink intoxicating liquor.

PLEASED AT SELECTION OF GEN. WOOD

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 13.—President Harding's appointment of General Leonard Wood as governor of the Philippine Islands, is a "happy choice," as far as residents of the islands are concerned, in the opinion of Manuel L. Quezon, president of the Philippine senate. He passed through here last night on his way from Seattle to Washington.

"The appointment of General Wood will be well received everywhere in the Philippines, I am sure," Mr. Quezon said. "The people feel that he is a man well acquainted with their problems because he has lived there and knows them from first hand information. Any man that was considered a worthy candidate for president of the United States should certainly have the approval of our people."

Millette of 531 Merrimack street has been revoked as a result of his conviction in the Lowell court August 1 on a charge of operating in such a manner that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered. Emilio A. Jean of 53 Melvin street has been notified that the registration certificate of his automobile has been revoked, and his license to operate suspended, because the acting registrar has reason to believe that he has operated the automobile after drink intoxicating liquor.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem 'Takin' It

YES, Fate has handed the gaff to me, I'm kinda battered, all right, all right; I ain't a beautiful thing to see, But still I'm able to make a fight. I know that my chance to win is slight, I'm sick and weary my whole frame through, There ain't no glory nor cash in sight, But I'll stick for another round or two!

I AIN'T no champ in this game called life, But the only way I can quit the ring Is to show up yellow amid the strife, And I ain't so strong for that sort of thing; So I'm doin' my best to chop and swing (An' takin' my sluggin' as dubs must do, —An' maybe you think them blows don't sting—) But I'll stick for another round or two.

Oh, the champs get all of the gold an' fame, But though there's none of that stuff in mine, I can be plucky—I can be game, I needn't squeal an' I needn't whine; I may be a dub an' an awful shine An' the wallows I land be mighty few, But I'll fight my best an' I won't resign, An' I'll stick for another round or two! ## HARDING TAKES UP SKEFFINGTON CASE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The case of Immigration Commissioner Skeffington at Boston is being given consideration by both the president and Secretary Davis of the department of labor. It was said at the White House yesterday that the president is waiting for some further investigation of the case by the secretary before acting in the matter. Secretary Davis went to Chicago yesterday, and action on Mr. Skeffington may be delayed until his return to Washington, it was suggested.

England's Best Jockey
Once Rode for Ex-Kaiser

LONDON, Aug. 13.—A middle-aged man, whose father was a famous roughrider in Australia and whose son is already a promising jockey, has swept all before him this year on the English race tracks.

He is Frank Bullock. His name is being ranked with those of Fred Archer, Ted Sloan, Danny Maher and Frank Weston. In many ways Bullock's career is more unique and varied than these celebrated riders. Born in Australia, he became an exceptionally good rider.

Rode for Kaiser
When he came to Europe one of his memorable jobs was to ride horses for the ex-kaiser. At that time Reginald Day, an English trainer, had charge of William Hohenzollern's loyal stud. Bullock, but a few weeks ago, in four days of racing, rode winners in nine races at the Ascot race meet, something none of his predecessors ever did. Bullock rode two winners the first day, three on each of the second and third, and one on the last.

Shortly afterwards at another English track he rode four winners one day and two the next.

Paris Winner
In between times, on Sundays, he slipped over to Paris and rode winners in the French Oaks and the French Derby.

Last year he won the Grand Prix de Paris on an English horse. The last compilation made of his work in the saddle this season so far showed that out of 215 mounts he rode 55 to victory, placed 25 to second place and 19 to third place.

He is still riding in super-form. His son, F. L. Bullock, has all the earmarks of becoming as famous in the saddle as his father. With such a teacher, he has a big advantage over other young jockeys.

THE BAY STATE CIRCUIT Bad Day for Favorites at Woonsocket — Francis
Todd Wins 6-Heater

WOONSOCKET, Aug. 13.—The favorites had a bad day in the racing on the closing day of the mid-summer meeting of the Bay State circuit at the Woonsocket track yesterday afternoon, not one in the three classes coming through with a win.

Louisa Fletcher, chosen to win the 218 trot gave way after a great struggle to Frances Todd, a Woonsocket horse, after six heats of some of the hardest racing seen at the track this year. Electric McMoran, Frances Todd and Jay Weston were out for the race but Frances Todd took the lead in the last two miles and won. Almadon O'ward and Barney Hayt provided some thrills in the 240 pace. Gold Quartz, the favorite, never being in a position to be a serious contender. The fourth heat of the race looked to many in the grandstand as a dead heat but the judges saw Almadon O'ward and he took the race. The 224 stakio trot was won easily by Palestirina after tight heats. Monarque was the favorite.

SEVERAL GOOD BALL GAMES ON TODAY

This afternoon at Spaulding park the Lowell Knickerbockers will play the Bennett A. A. of Somerville. The pitchers will be Jim Davidson for Lowell and Martin, a former Boston National player, for the visitors. The Broadways will play the Illegals at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. Some good baseball is likely to result from this match as it is said that the teams are very evenly matched.

MRS. MALLORY MEETS
MISS GOSS TODAY

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 13.—The match between Mrs. Molla Blurred Mallory, the national title holder, and Miss Elmer Goss, both of New York, in the final for the women's tennis trophy in the singles stands forth as one of the features today. Both have been playing fairly well, Miss Goss distinguishing herself by her victory over Miss Mary K. Brown, Los Angeles, in the semi-final round.

The final in the men's doubles, which will be the first of the matches decided this afternoon, brings two of the eastern pairs into action. Vincent Richards and S. Howard Vothell, New York, the national indoor champion, will be opposed by Watson M. Washburn and R. Norris Williams, 2nd, members of the Davis cup team.

AMERICAN DAVIS CUP
TEAM CHOSEN

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The American Davis cup defending team will consist of William T. Tilden 2nd, William M. Johnston, R. Norris Williams 2nd, and Watson M. Washburn, the United States Lawn Tennis association announced last night.

The players were selected by unanimous decision of the Davis cup committee. Its choice was made known on the last day permitted by the cup regulations.

The challenge round will be played at Forest Hills, N. Y., September 2, 3 and 5. The cup committee consisted of Robert R. Wrenn, George T. Ade, Heals C. Wright, Samuel Hardy and Harold H. Hackett.

"There was no question of Tilden and Johnston making the team," Samuel Hardy, captain of last year's Davis cup team, declared. "Tilden's condition upon his return from England caused considerable uneasiness, but he has been resting most of the time since the Rhode Island State championship and ought to be in good shape for the matches in September."

"Johnston is playing well and apparently is following his usual course. His season is timed so that he will reach his best form about September 1."

"With two singles players of such ability, the committee's problem was to select the combination that would best support them in singles in case Tilden or Johnston should be injured, supposing that they are named for the singles matches."

"From every point of view Williams and Washburn stand out as the obvious selections. They are players known well and are experienced in international tennis. As a doubles combination they have won the best tournaments of the year and in singles they have done very well."

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES
Cox Wins With Hilda Fletcher—Single G Paces to His 1.59 Mark

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13.—The closing program of the Grand Circuit meeting at the North Randall track yesterday was featured by a sensational exhibition mile by the veteran pacer, single G, which had been withdrawn from the free-for-all race in order that he might tilt against the winner.

The old horse, making his ninth campaign, paced to his best time of 1:59, setting the record for the season and equalling the fastest mile paced last year. G. out of the free-for-all race, that event developed into a sensational betting event, in which the favorite, Hal Mahone, cashed, although beaten in the first heat by Sanardo, driven by Paul Geers. The track was very slow at the start of the racing, due to the heavy rain of Thursday night, but was in fairly good condition when Single G. paced his record mile.

Hal Mahone, $230, the Murphy entry Sanardo, driven by Geers, and June with Murphy up, $200, and Frisco June, $50, is the talent had the fast pace sized up. Sanardo set the pace in the first heat and lasted long enough to win by a neck from Hal Mahone, with Frisco June right at the pair.

The next time Hal Mahone came out from behind in the home stretch and caught the count of Geers close to the wire, repeating in the same manner, the final heat. Frisco June showed a lot of speed but did not get away from the wire well.

Walter Cox made his winning race score four for the week by piloting Hilda Fletcher to the front in the 218 trot, in which she was favorite. Lucy L. behind which the judges had rated Valentino, for Collins in the 210 pace, in which three heats were raced Thursday, won the deciding heat yesterday and the judges awarded Valentino $100 for his service and suspended Collins for 30 days for improper driving in the first heat.

Carmelita Hall, the favorite, won the 212 trot, all out in each heat to beat Brusloff and Little Dick. The 214 pace was snail. The Airship, a fast but erratic performer from Michigan, pulling up for the first division, while the second went to Hal W., which won without trouble.

With the close of the western division of the Grand circuit for the time being the majority of the leading stables ship to Philadelphia, while the next meeting of the circuit opens on Tuesday, the balance of the stables here shipping to the great Western Circuit and half-mile tracks.

FRIZZETTI AGAIN CHAMP
Regains N. E. Lightweight
Title in Battle With Clinton—Shubert Beaten

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Jimmy Frizzetti of Brockton is another boxer to be added to the role of those who won back their title. He did so last night at the Armory A. A. show in New England building when he won back the New England lightweight championship from Johnny Clinton in 10 rounds.

For the first six rounds it looked as if Clinton was going to retain the title. He did some good punching in close, and hooked Frizzetti many times on the jaw with the left, besides landing some good body punches with both hands. Frizzetti did some good countering on the body with the right. From that session till the end of the bout Clinton boxed more at long range, and that was what caused him to lose the title. Frizzetti kept driving rights and lefts to the body and face. Clinton made little effort to do any of his clever close-range boxing.

The battle between Dan Dowd, New England heavyweight champion, and Ted Jamieson of Milwaukee was won by Dowd at the end of eight rounds. In the second round, Jamieson broke a bone in his right hand, but he continued to fight, despite the pain. When he came back to his corner after the eighth round, his manager, Eddie Mack, saw that Jamieson could not fight under such condition and ordered the referee to give the award to Dowd.

Kid Kansas of Providence won the decision over Young Nova of the West End in the opening eight-round bout. Jack Mansfield of Lawrence and Tony Julian of Brockton fought four rounds, and Mansfield's second, seeing he had no chance, threw in the towel and Julian was declared the winner.

Elkins Beats Shubert
NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 13.—Charles K. A. Elkins of Boston won the decision over Al Shubert of this city at the Cyclopedrom last night. The battling was fierce throughout, the bout being one of the best events seen here for years. Elkins' vicious left hook to the jaw was the deciding factor.

AMATEUR BASEBALL
The Nationals would like to play the Vermont A.C. for $5 a side Sunday, August 21. Put up or shut up. The Nationals.

CURS PROTEST PIRATES' VICTORY
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—Manager Killefer of the Chicago Cubs has protested the stolen base played here with the Pirates in a double header Thursday. Killefer claimed that had a foul fly been hit in the general direction of the Pirate dugout during the 11th inning of the game, it would have been impossible to make the catch as park employees were there unrolling a tarpaulin preparatory to laying it over the home plate.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE
Monday night a Twilight game will be held on the South common between the Centralvilles and the South Ends. If the South Ends win they will be tied for second place with the Highland Daylights and it will be necessary to play another game to determine the final league standing. If the Centralvilles win the Daylights will automatically take second money.

FRENCH TENNIS CHAMP
Suzanne Lenglen Arrived at New York Today—To Try
Skill With American Stars

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis champion, arrived today on the steamship Paris, to try the skill of America's women stars on their home courts.

Representatives of the United States Lawn Tennis association and the American committee for devastated France went to the pier to greet the French queen of the courts and planned to escort her this afternoon to a tennis court where she could start limbering up for her campaign. Her first match is scheduled for Monday, with Miss Elmer Goss as opponent, in the opening round of the women's national championship at Forest Hills.

Mike Lenglen was accompanied to America by her mother, A. R. de Joannis, vice president of the French Lawn Tennis Federation.

"WILDFIRE" SCHULTE
STILL BURNS ON
BY Newspaper Enterprise

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Joe Kelly, famed as a major league baseball scout, while tramping through the bushes for the New York Yankees, sees everything Kelly's opinion of the merits of the minors is not to be sneezed at.

"Who is the best looking minor leaguer you have seen?" Joe was asked.

"Wildfire Frank Schulte," was Joe's reply.

Of course, Kelly is aware, as is every other man who follows baseball, that Schulte is 29 and has been playing a score of years.

He started with the Cubs so long ago that the average fan has to resort to the books to get the facts. They remember "Wildfire" hitting out home runs when the Cubs were famous under Frank Chance, but Frank had passed out of their minds.

Schulte is now playing right field for Syracuse, is batting .319 and has made twelve home runs.

He had a bad year in 1920 and they thought he was through. But he came back better than ever this season and the "Wildfire" of the early nineteen hundreds.

BROAD JUMP CHAMP FLIES

Ned Gourdin, who set a new world's record for the broad jump of 25 feet 3 inches at Boston, July 25, literally airplanes through the air. Fifty yards from the takeoff board he stands with both feet together.

SPY
Mike Gibbons is piling up a record for fighting. Three wins in a week over Angle Ratner, Gus Platts and Jeff Smith have planted him at Johnny Wilson's front.

This raises the question of how many good fights a fellow has under his belt without taking time to recuperate.

Gibbons finds the going easy. Jack Dempsey has often expressed a desire to fight every night if he could get the opportunity.

Fighting is a tough game. When going it every other night it is impossible to be at one's best.

ROMANCE
Yale plans to drop secret football practice this fall to stimulate interest.

But will it?

When eleven drill behind closed gates, there are dozens of tales of the prowess of stars that emanate to the fans on the outside.

Some are true, others aren't.

But there's romance in all of them.

PROSPERITY
Football calls already are being sent out. The gridiron will have its biggest year this fall.

Attendance records were smashed last year. They'll be bigger this season.

Great football teams are no longer confined to the east.

They have winter teams on the Pacific coast now. Also they are found in remote villages such as Danville, Ky., the home of the famed Centre eleven with plays Harvard Oct. 29.

BRAVES SIGN
BOSTON, Aug. 13.—The signing of three new players was announced today by the Boston National League club.

Are Catcher Duffy O'Regan of Brighton, Pitcher Al Davidson of Brooklyn, and Infielder Tim Doolley of Brooklyn, O'Regan, who graduated from Boston college last year, was catcher on the varsity nine for three seasons.

RUTH PLAYS BRILLIANTLY
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Babe Ruth not only hit his 44th home run of the season in yesterday's game between the New York and Philadelphia American League clubs, but performed brilliantly in the field. In the first he caught Johnny Walker's fly. In the fourth he executed a spectacular running catch of Tilly Walker's short but high fly back of shortstop. In the sixth he backed against the wall after 11 attempts to his right and got a long drive by Hasty.

SAM LANGFORD WINS
OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 13.—Sam Langford was given the decision over Lee Anderson of Oakland, Cal., at the end of their 10 round bout here last night. The fight was the first to be staged under the new Nebraska boxing law.

TWOBLY IS CLIMBING
Bay State Boy Runnerup to Hornsby in National League Batting Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Clarence Twombly, who has been alternating between playing the outfield for the Cubs and acting as premier pinch hitter, is closing the gap between himself and Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis star for batting honors in the National league. The Chicagoan tacked on five more points to his batting average and is the runner up to Hornsby with an average of .375. Hornsby dropped five points, but continues to top the list with .410. Pop Young, of New York is third with .390.

George Kelly, of the Giants, cracked out his 19th homer during the past week and is leading the circuit drive hitters, his closest rivals being Hornsby and McHenry of St. Louis, each of whom have 15.

Frisch of New York, stole three bases since the completion of the previous figures and is showing the way to the base stealers with 31 thefts. Hornsby, broke the tie which he shared with Frisch for runs scored and is leading this department. He registered 59 times.

Other leading batters: Cutshaw, Pittsburgh, .351; McHenry, St. Louis, .346; Nicholson, Boston, .346; Cruise, Boston, .342; Fouch, Cincinnati, .337; Fournier, St. Louis, .335; Meusel, New York, .333; Mann, St. Louis, .325.

Babe Ruth, the home run king, is many days ahead of his 1920 circuit drive record. The Yankee slugger crashed out his 44th homer in the game Friday between New York and the Athletics. Ruth has only to make 11 more to equal his average went from .422 to .417. Ty Cobb, his manager, who is the runner-up also slumped, his mark being .387. Tobin of St. Louis moved up to third position with an average of .373, with Ruth next with an average of .369, two points in front of Tris Speaker, who dropped from third place. Speaker's mark is .367.

Clintus of Washington, failed to add to his string of stolen bases and is showing the way with 20 thefts. Other leading batters: Flagstead, Detroit, .355; Saylor, St. Louis, .350; Williams, St. Louis, .343; Severid, St. Louis, .348; E. Collins, .337.

HABIT! IT PLAYS BIG PART IN OUR GAMES

George Duncan, invading British golfer, is becoming Americanized quickly.

He has cast aside his coat. Britons at home wear their coats while playing, owing to climatic conditions. Wearing them is so much a habit that they feel ill at ease without them.

Duncan says he feels too loose in his swing without them. Vardon and Ray, on their 1920 tour, stuck to their coats in spite of the heat.

Habit plays a mighty big part in athletics.

FRANKNESS
The first thing Miss Alexa Sterling said when she arrived home from Europe, where she failed to win their golf titles, was that "they have excellent players and wonderful golf courses."

She might have blamed her defeat on poor courses and freaky playing of her opponents, as summer losers do.

Miss Alexa is the kind of champion we like to have in America.

PROSPERITY
Football calls already are being sent out. The gridiron will have its biggest year this fall.

Attendance records were smashed last year. They'll be bigger this season.

We'll Forget His Swing
But Not His Clover

JIM BARNES AND HIS SWING. INSET IS CLOVER SPRIG WHICH HELPED HIM WIN GOLF TITLE.

Jim Barnes, new open golf champion, has qualified for the "chew something club" of athletic stars. Barnes gives the little sprig of clover which he tightly held between his teeth part credit for his victory.

The clover steadied his nerves when he needed steadiness most, he said. Tris Speaker, leader of the Cleveland Indians, starts chewing grass when his club gets in a hole and there is quick thinking to be done.

Ted Ray, winner of the national open in 1920, played with a briar pipe in his teeth.

Pop Geers, veteran race driver, continually chews on a cigar. Barney Oldfield, motorcar speed demon, also chews on a cigar when under the strain of driving long races.

Little things—peculiar habits—stamp color on our great athletes. Barnes is now reaping a harvest from the prestige given him by winning America's greatest golf honor.

Few people, who saw Barnes achieve his greatest triumph, will remember how he swung his club. But they'll never forget the dangling bit of luck clover which he held in his mouth.

Freddy Wright Leaves for Hawaii
WATERTOWN, Aug. 13.—Fred J. Wright, Jr., of Albertmarle, former state amateur golf champion and last American survivor in the recent British amateur golf championship left here today for Chicago on his way to Hawaii. He is to work on a sheep ranch, some 15 miles from Honolulu, and does not expect to return until next spring. Wright said he would tote his clubs along for he has discovered that there is a sand green course at Waikiki beach, 11 miles away.

Large Kitchen and Generous Dining Room Features of This Colonial Style Home

This is another of the model home plans furnished The Sun by the Curtis Service Bureau of Clinton, Inc. experts in interior and exterior work.
Many people have become accustomed to thinking of a Colonial house as a house of clapboard, painted white—a house with dormers, green shutters, and a veranda. Yet shingles, brick or stucco are often advantageously used in houses of Colonial type.
It would be hard to imagine anything more simple than this severely rectangular house, 28 feet by 29 feet, with its plain gabled roof, balanced chimneys, and symmetrically placed openings. There is not, however, the least suggestion of monotony or bareness. La-zo-ki, instead of heavy posts, the porch roof, instead of heavy posts, Quaint shutters are decorative, and

This vestibule and the rear entry
on the opposite side of the house,
both within the rectangle of the main structure, form an interesting alcove
on the long inside wall of the living room. Here a davenport or piano would have an admirable location,
just opposite the hearth. The living room extends the entire depth of the house, having windows on three sides,
and a French door leading to the secluded side porch. At the far end, a built-in seat beneath the window has benches on each side. The lid of the seat is hinged, so this space, too, is utilized.

Kitchen is Convenient
There is a generous dining alcove,
with built-in table and benches. It is reached from the vestibule and separated from the kitchen by a cased opening.

Every possible convenience is provided in the kitchen for lightening the burdens of housework. The sink occupies a light working place with a pleasant outlook, under one window. Windows on adjacent sides, and the rear door opening on a third side, insure against disagreeable smoke, odor and heat. Two cupboards are built-in.

In the rear entrance the refrigerator has a cool place, convenient from within and from without. Delivery shelves may be put here. The basement stairs in this position save intrusion into the kitchen, when laundry clothes or ashes are to be brought up.

The central stair divides the upstairs into two nearly equal halves.
One half is divided between the main bedroom and bath, the other between two smaller bedrooms. Each bedroom has a clothes closet; one of them has two, adjoining; the third has also a built-in tray case that answers all the need for a chiffonier.

Cross-ventilation is gained for every bedroom on account of corner location. In the hall there is a case for linens enclosed by an interior
door of regular size and design.

This is a house which may face
north or west, or if reversed, south or east. It is attractive from either an end or front view.

Since the Colonial house is properly a white house, both within and without, the porchwork, window
bars, entrance door, and all frames painted green, the roof should be white. If the shutters are painted green, the roof should be stained to match. Within, the woodwork may be enameled, the stair being white with mahoganyized treads and hand rail.

beautiful home, she still is in her fuller maturity, a never ending joy to look upon.
Then there is the residence of Hon.
George W. Fildes which is bound to attract attention either however how much it may from those above mentioned. Animate and inanimate life all come in for a share of attention and a visit to our genial friend is bound to be one of all interest and pleasure.
For with all his belongings and the management of large business and financial interests he is ever enthusiastic over his last importation, and never so happy as when dilating upon the many distinguished traits of his large and somewhat heterogeneous collection of animals. He is deservedly popular. Kindly in disposition, and affectable in manner, and has achieved considerable political distinction, and is still young enough to have a future.

Who knows—but then we won't speculate.

Then there is the Livingston mansion which, like Mt. Olympus, still holds aloof from the rest of the world, the one dream of my boyish fancy. Nor must one forget the new mansion which in splendor will out-rival all the others, Mr. Coram's magnificent place on Marlborough street.
Whatever social influence this will have in the future remains yet to be seen, certainly there has been expenditure of money enough if that was the only thing, but possibly it isn't.
With great wealth there goes also somehow of responsibility and a man thus endowed can if he will,
make his name a joy in the community.

I cannot speak of the many lovely little houses with which Lowell
abounds, nestled in among the trees, surrounded by flowers, and blooming shrubs, carefully cared for, watched over and guarded. But I am sure no
city of its size has more to be proud of in this direction than has Lowell.

J. W. F.

The Ayer residence referred to is now occupied as an orphanage and the Coram residence as a hospital; the Butler residence now occupied by Mrs. Anna H., widow of Paul Butler. Mr. Fildes was mayor of Lowell and about the time
this article was written, he was widely mentioned as a candidate for congress but as he rejected the free silver platform on which Bryan was nominated, he issued a statement announcing that he would not be a candidate. His collection of animals included deer, a swan, an ostrich, a peacock and various kinds of waterfowl.
He had a little pond stocked with fish. His residence has been changed over for renting purposes and the land formerly devoted to his menageerie, has been sold and built upon so that the old place has little resemblance of what it was when it impressed Mr. Fletcher as a visitor to our city. I wish to direct the reader's attention to what he said of our streets, their good condition and cleanliness. At that time, the tax rate was $16, but now it is $30, and our streets were never so bad. Is this a sign of progress or the reverse? The people may draw their own conclusions.

If we were to mention some of the more notable buildings erected within the last twenty-five years we should simply name the Normal school, the Textile school, The Sun building, the Massachusetts storehouse and the big storehouse in Jackson street. The new high school and the auditorium
now nearing completion will give Lowell a degree of distinction for fine buildings above some other cities in the past. With these buildings finished and our public streets made fairly respectable, Lowell would hold
a high rank among cities of her class.

President Returns From Vacation
To Face Bunch of Joy Killers

Discordant and Divided Members of Republican Party Deep in Mire of Divided

Opinions—Ex-Service Men Appreciate

Work Done in Their Behalf by Senator

David I. Walsh

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 13.—The joy may be partly taken out of President Harding's vacation in the White mountains, when he faces the discordant and divided members of his party who stayed on the job and got deeper into the mire of divided opinions as to what turn party policy should take next. Tariff, revenue, beer, and anti-ber, details about national and international measures soon to be brought to the front are in a decided tangle and it will require all Mr. Harding's tact, good nature and diplomacy to unravel it. And if it is done at all, it must be done by the personal efforts of Mr. Harding himself. A certain faction will follow Senator Borah, Kenyon and other progressives whose ideas are frequently of a radical kind, but the rank and file of the republicans in both senate and house are not good followers.

The tremendous influx of new members on the majority side of the able and experienced team, which has not yet learned the need of team work to make a party success, nor have they agreed, even among themselves, as to a leader. In fact, they seem to have but little idea that a leader of a party, as represented in congress, is just as necessary as a leader during a campaign. A majority of 45 votes in the house and a majority of 35 votes in the senate are absolutely necessary to secure the passage of any measure—and that majority cannot be obtained, if every man takes the bit into his teeth and runs away, regardless of who or what follows. Republicans who have had legislative experience know this, and they depend on President Harding to bring into line the new men, who though they may have reached years of discretion, in reckoning hitherto, are somewhat coltish in their tendency to kick over party traces.

Walsh Aids Veterans
Senator David I. Walsh has stood his ground with unflinching zeal, all through the terrific heat which has crumpled Washingtonians to the dust this year. He has been determined to see to it that the disabled veterans of the great war were provided with better hospital facilities; that they were not neglected or turned aside, to wait the convenience of any officials by whom their cases must be considered. And he won out. He went before the senate and the house, when the bills on these matters were being discussed and it is largely due to his untiring efforts that the Sweet bill came out of congress in a shape that will be of tremendous benefit to the maimed and wounded men now in hospitals and private sanitariums.

The ex-service men have made known to the senator their great appreciation of the work he has done in their behalf. In fact Massachusetts congressmen and senators worked with a will over the passage of the Sweet bill. Its terms incorporated a very great extent the admirable bill for a similar purpose, introduced last year by Congressman John Jacob Rogers of Lowell, and Mr. Rogers was foremost in urging the passage of the present bill and in safeguarding the interests of the veterans, while the bill was before the house for debate.

The Sweet bill cuts much red tape, and its friends predict that within a few months great improvement will be shown in the management of matters pertaining to veteran benefits. Democratic Floor Leader Representative Gurnett of Tennessee, democratic floor leader during the absence of Mr. Kilglin on account of illness, has spiked the wheels of the distribution of German war trophies to the 48 states. Whether he will set them in motion again remains to be seen. It came about this way. Some one discovered that the expense of transporting the cannon, etc., to the various states. So some one introduced a bill authorizing the expenditure of $400,000 for that purpose. Then Mr. Garrett rose and objected. He did more. He talked with power and eloquence against the measure, and the debate lasted a long time. At the end of which time the bill was sent back to the military committee for repairs and alterations. Mr. Garrett wants each state to assume the expense of transportation, etc., instead of getting a free gift from the government. The bill was further amended to provide that the congressional delegations instead of governors or other state officials. Chairman Kahn of the military committee stated that there are now $4,500 trophies waiting distribution. Of these 10,000 are field guns. They are now stored in New Jersey.

Re-apportionment Legislation
Nothing has as yet been done about re-apportionment legislation made necessary under the 1920 census. The house now has 435 members and bills introduced run all the way from keeping it at that figure to increasing it to 450. Under any of the proposed bills, Massachusetts would gain one member, and unless the increase is to the highest possible notch, Maine will lose one member. Connecticut will gain a new member of congress, anyhow, but other states may depend on the rate of apportionment.

Disarmament Conference
When the proposed disarmament conference is held in Washington it is probable that the suggestion of President Harding will be adopted and that the conference will be conducted in the English language instead of in French, which up to this time has been the language of diplomacy for many years. This will not put other countries to the disadvantage the United States usually labors under when French is spoken, for all Europeans are linguists, and the educated man who does not understand and speak English, at least to a fair degree, is rare. On the other hand, the Americans, who may be selected to act in behalf of the United States on account of their leadership and great ability, would probably hear and talk only through official interpreters. Senator Lodge is a notable exception, as he is a thorough French scholar and speaks it fluently. Mr. Harding's suggestion seems to indicate that not only does he intend the United States shall be properly recognized, but that he intends to get first hand, the exact nature of any proposed negotiations.

What is a Mule?
There was a lively discussion in the senate last week, as to whether a mule is a vegetable product, because it is raised on a farm. Senator Watson of Georgia claimed that it was, but Senator Caraway of Arkansas thought otherwise. The fact that the mercury in the senate chamber climbed to 98 degrees and a roll call failed to develop a quorum, brought the debate to an end, by an adjournment of that august body, and so far as the records show, the discussion ended in a tie. Somebody suggested "When is a mule not a mule?" might be as knotty a question as the "How old is Ann?" puzzle.

Taft Buys Mansion
Chief Justice William Howard Taft is said to have negotiated for the purchase of the big mansion occupied and owned by Lieut. Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts, while he was a member of congress.

The Fuller house is splendidly located and is one of the finest in the residential section of the city. It has been on the market ever since Mr. Fuller went out of his congressional office.

E. F. SLATTERY, JR.

"My business is selling houses," says Edward F. Slattery, Jr., the real estate and insurance man in the Strand building. And if one is to judge by the number of houses that have changed hands through the efforts of Mr. Slattery during the past year, it is fair to assume that he is handling his business in the proper way. Remember him when you are ready to buy or sell a piece of property.

THE WRONG CHILD

REVERE, Aug. 13.—A section of Shirley avenue was thrown into a turmoil yesterday when Harold Carr, a vaudeville actor, appeared at the home of his wife, Gladys, who is living with her mother, Mrs. Nellie Frank, at 18 Shirley ave., and in an alleged attempt to kidnap his little boy, Kenneth, picked up another child by mistake.

The child seized in the excitement was Dorothy Morris, aged 4, and Carr was forced to flee with his two companions in an automobile from Mrs. Myrtle Morris, mother of the little one, who also lives at 18 Shirley ave., his wife and mother-in-law.

When the three men arrived in the car the Morris child was at play in the rear yard clad in a bathing suit, and it is thought that this attire caused Carr to mistake the child for his own.

Mrs. Morris shouted when she saw the man pick up her little girl and hurry toward the street. Her cries attracted the attention of Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Frank. They joined in the race after Carr, Kenneth, aged 2, the son of Carr, was at his mother's side.

The commotion attracted Norman Waxler, who conducts a store at 7 Shirley ave. Waxler shouted, "What are you doing with the little Morris girl?" and at this Carr is said to have realized it was not his child.

At the time the women were making a strenuous effort to wrest the girl away, Carr laid the child down and fled into the waiting automobile with his two friends.

Later in the day Mrs. Frank appeared at the Chelsea court and made a complaint of assault and battery against Carr.

IN MURDER CASE

This photograph of Miss Olivia P. Stone was taken in Brooklyn "police court" when she was arraigned on a charge of killing Edith P. Kinkaid, formerly a prominent attorney in Ohio. Kinkaid was shot as he was about to enter his New York home where he lived with his wife of a year. Miss Stone became acquainted with Kinkaid when she nursed him at Cincinnati General hospital.

A snowstorm followed a drop from 92 degrees of heat at Boise, Idaho, July 1.

DO YOU CORSET YOURSELF CORRECTLY?

There is one woman out of a hundred who corsets herself correctly. This is the statement of Miss Kathryn Walker, corsetiers of Savannah, Ga. Miss Walker has her own shop in which corsets are handled exclusively. Her specialty, however, is making hospital fittings. She makes a daily trip to the various hospitals of the city where she visits convalescent patients and fits them correctly.

"No matter how slender the woman, she should never lace her corset with less than two laces. One should extend from the top to about an inch below the waist line. A second lace should be used over the hips. Very stout women would be wise to use three laces. The top one should extend to about two inches above the waist line. Another should extend from the bottom to about two inches below the waist line and a third should be right at the waist."

MISS KATHRYN WALKER

Thus a corset can be comfortably adjusted.

"The corset," says Miss Walker, "should be pulled well down in place before it is adjusted and should be readjusted every day for even very slender figures."

"One of the greatest mistakes of the slender woman that she believes because she is slender the need not be so careful about readjusting her corset. It's just as necessary to the smartness of her figure as it is for the heavier woman."

OVERSEER OF ZION TALKS

Attacks Organizations Which Have Opened Churches in Opposition to Zion Church

ZION CITY, Ill., Aug. 12.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, renewed his attack today on religious organizations which have opened churches here in opposition to the Zion church with the announcement that the famous leases of Alexander Dowie will be changed to prohibit the transfer of property without the personal approval of the overseer.

The new leases will be for 1079 years, the 79 years being added to cover the period during which the Lord is expected to come again and take His saints out of the world for seven years, according to Dowie's teachings. At the end of the seven years they will be returned to establish His rule throughout the world for 1000 years.

Dowie's leases made in 1300, were for 1100 years. The seven year flight of the saints to heaven was to take place some time during the extra 100 years. The new leases, running 1079 years, will terminate, like the originals, in the year 3000.

The leases forbid the sale or storage in Zion of pork, lard or other products of swine; the construction or operation of theatres, opera, moving picture houses, circuses or dance halls; secret societies; the keeping or sale of intoxicants, sale or manufacture of tobacco, operation of a drug store, or sale of drugs; and the use of any property as the residence or office of a physician or surgeon.

A. F. MACK APPOINTED

Will be District Manager of Shipping Board for Northeastern Section of Country

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A. F. Mack, formerly president of the Federal Shipping Co. and now the Cosmopolitan Co., was appointed today by Chairman Lasker, district manager of the shipping board for the northeastern section of the country. He will have control of shipping board operations at New York, Boston and Philadelphia with headquarters in New York city.

Mr. Mack is a native of Cleveland, Ohio, and has been engaged in the railroad and shipping interest for 40 years.

WEEKS ASKS U. OF PENN. TO RELEASE GEN. WOOD

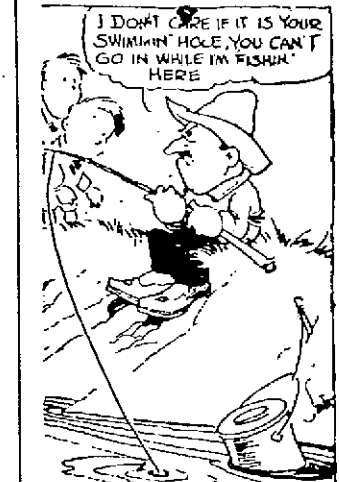

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Secretary Weeks has asked the University of Pennsylvania to release Major General Leonard Wood from his promise to become provost of the university and it was indicated today that the administration expected the reply to be favorable. General Wood will then be free to accept the governor's nomination to the Philippines. The question cannot be definitely disposed of, however, until the university trustees take action.

Should General Wood be released by the university, he probably will remain indefinitely in the Philippines, where he went some months ago to undertake an investigation of conditions at the direction of President Harding. By the time his investigation is completed, the administration hopes to have obtained congressional authority for his services for government without loss of his army rank. He will then take up his new duties without returning to the United States.

TO EXTEND DYE EMBARGO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The senate finance committee ordered today favorable report on the Longworth resolution, passed by the house extending the dye embargo in the emergency tariff law, but amended to extend the entire act to Jan. 1. Representative Longworth had proposed extension of the dye embargo to Nov. 27.

STUDY IN EXPRESSIONS

FIND FACES IN STONE

Carvings in Harkness Memorial Quadrangle at Yale Found by Visitors

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 12.—Faces in stone are being found by visitors who under university guides, inspect the Harkness Memorial quadrangle at Yale. Unlike those in St. Thomas' church in New York city, where much of the sculpture in the detail of the Gothic architecture is in carvatures, the carvings in Harkness are reproduction in studied lines of men and incidents in connection with the life of the university and of early New Haven. In a lounge room is a carving of the "mystery ship" which in 1643 and was seen to be wrecked and then vanished. Four bull dogs, in stone, are to serve as symbols of undegraded courage. One, with a wrinkled brow wears rimmed spectacles; another with wrinkled face has a football player's helmet, another a soldier's cap and the fourth wears a rose and a thistle, a shamrock and an elm, the last named for New Haven. A square, compass, level and plumb have been found elsewhere.

Among the figures and faces on towers are those of Samuel Morse inventor of the telegraph; Eli Whitney, inventor of the cotton gin; Eli Yale, James Fenimore Cooper, Jonathan Edwards, Nathaniel Hale, Noah Webster, John Caldwell Calhoun, former President Arthur T. Hadley, James Gamble Rogers, architect of the buildings and several of those who had charge of divisions of the construction. Inscriptions are found in many places. That beside Nathan Hale is: "I wish to be useful," a quotation from one of his sayings. Chief Justice Taft is the only living man to have a gateway named after himself. A group of figures in working clothes with pick and shovel, symbolizes the Yale men who worked on the buildings.

According to George Nichols, the resident architect, the purpose of filling the nooks in the buildings with figures is to make an historical record that can be read by all who care to take the time and trouble.

The window panes in the rooms have old pictures burnt in them, illustrating student life and incidents, and these have already been described to some extent through university publications. But the carvings are more compelling to attention of those who visit the buildings on which the workmen are constantly engaged in carrying out the details.

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT WIRE DESPATCHES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Republican members of the senate finance and the house ways and means committee reached a tentative agreement today on a modification of the American valuation plan for application in the next tariff law. CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Declaration by the railroad that prescription of the piece-work system as a basis of pay in railroad shops was unjustified and if insisted upon, would compel the roads to give their work to outside shops, was met by charges of employees' representatives that piecework undermined the morale and was not as efficient as day work. In hearings before the railroad labor board today.

DETROIT, Aug. 12.—A catarract that has developed on his right eye is causing Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit baseball team, little inconvenience, he said today. It is of only recent development, Cobb said, adding that until it becomes more serious he would make no plans for its removal.

15-YEAR-OLD GIRL SAVES TWO FROM DROWNING

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Fifteen year old Phyllis Perry of Chipewaga, Ont., rescued Wilma and Cora Baidry, 17 and 12 years old, respectively, of Niagara Falls, Ont., from drowning this afternoon, a half mile above the falls. Wilma was overcome while swimming and her younger sister went to the rescue. She was being dragged down with her sister when Miss Perry dived from Navy Island, where the girls were campers, and brought the sisters to shore.

132 CONSECUTIVE BULLSEYES

WAKEFIELD, Aug. 12.—Sergeant P. W. Jones of the Marine corps, established what was claimed as a new world's record when he scored 132 consecutive bullseyes in a 300-yards slow fire match in a service tournament here today. A regulation army rifle was used.

Blackbirds Put Cities in Darkness

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The cities of Gloversville and Johnstown, and other parts of Fulton county, were in complete darkness for two hours last night and all electric power was entirely suspended for the same period. A flock of blackbirds alighted on the high tension wires about two miles from Gloversville, causing a short circuit which burned off the wires. These dropped to the ground in the midst of dead birds.

R. R. Clerk Tarred and Feathered

EL RENO, Okla., Aug. 12.—Masked men took J. P. Matthews, 20 yrs. old, a railroad mail clerk, from his home here last night, blindfolded him, drove several miles out of town, and returned soon after, dumping Matthews into the street with a coat of tar and feathers. Matthews with several other persons was arrested last Saturday on a charge of disorderly conduct.

MANY APPLICATIONS FOR WORK AT CITY HALL

The office of Commissioner Salmon at city hall is being taken by storm these days by men who are eager to secure employment. All kinds of said stories are being related to the commissioner. The commissioner recently adopted a system by which men are given work for one week at a time, the pay being $1.50 a day, but only 20 men can be employed at one time. These men have their names placed on the employment roll and when they are needed they are sent for. The roll is now full up to Sept. 17, said the commissioner this morning, but still they come. The employment of these extra workmen is being made possible by the extension of the Oakland 16-inch main.

To Buy Washington Park

sons advanced by the association for the purchase of the park. First, that there are a thousand children who would use that park for recreation purposes; second, that the locality has no other place where the children of the district can play games; third, that the park has been used to great advantage by the state for drilling soldiers in winter and by the children in the immediate vicinity for a playground; and fourth, that the traffic on Middlesex street is very heavy and that the children are in constant danger of being knocked down and run over. In concluding he said the residents of the district demand the park as a protection for the lives of the little ones.

Mr. Fitzgerald said that in his opinion there are close to 3000 children in that portion of Middlesex street from the railroad station to School street and these little ones, he said, have no place to play. Statistics show us, he said, that over 400 automobiles pass a given point in 40 minutes in Middlesex street, and that means that the little ones are constantly in danger.

The mayor said that as far as he is concerned the committee is waiting time, for he stated in his opinion there is an absolute necessity for a park in that district. "But," he continued, "we will have to wait until later on in the year so as not to get too close to the debt limit. We are now a reasonable distance from it, but I am willing to do anything to get farther away from it if possible. I am willing to pay half the land in Lowell if the people I represent are willing."

Mr. Fitzgerald wanted it understood that the association was in no way opposing the purchase of a park in the upper Highlands, but he believed the land to come when the lower end of the district should be recognized. "We do not want promises, but action," he said.

Supt. Kernan of the park department said the department has already gone on record as favoring the purchase of the park. "We went as far as we were able to go," he continued, "and even last winter with Commissioner Salmon I went over the grounds while the weather was below zero to look over the possibilities for a skating rink." He stated that the haste in the upper Highlands matter was due to the fact that someone was starting the erection of a building on the plot desired.

"It is action, and not promises we want," said Smith Adams, "and we want the council to go on record today as favoring the proposition. I want every one of you to show your hand today."

Louis Bernard reminded the city fathers that the association he represents has been endeavoring for the past two or three years to have the city purchase the park. He then referred to the 11th hour action of the residents of the upper district and of their success, and said he believed the lower district matter should be considered first for it was first in line. He also made reference to the great number of children in the district.

Rep. Jowett said he lived in the Highlands district all his life and he knows something about conditions. He referred to the casualties through automobile accidents throughout the country and said Middlesex street was one dangerous spot. He believed this was an opportune time for the purchase of the park.

Mayor Thompson again stated that he believed the council was in favor of the project and also stated the park department favored it, but he urged the delegation to wait until the city can afford the expense. At this point Adams asked the mayor if any citizen could put an injunction on the purchase of the upper Highlands land and the reply was in the affirmative.

Rep. Herard said the purchase of Washington park would be the best move the city could make. He warned the commissioners that delay would be dangerous as far as the purchase of the land is concerned. In his opinion Washington park was the real spot for a playground.

Commissioner Salmon said of the two playgrounds he believed Washington park should be considered first. Commissioner Donnelly said he has always been in favor of the purchase of Washington park. Commissioner Marchand stated he is willing to vote for the purchase of Washington park before voting for the purchase of the other.

At this point Mr. Fitzgerald explained that the association is asking for the purchase of the park more for a breathing place than for a baseball field. The mayor said he felt sure that Commissioner Murphy favored the proposition. Mr. Fitzgerald asked if the land could be leased by the city pending the time it is purchased and he was told this proposition would not be favorable. "I think," said the mayor, "it is better to wait another month and then purchase it outright."

"Would it be safe to assume that you will buy it in a month," asked Mr. Fitzgerald, and the mayor replied: "You need not worry the least little bit for the council is in favor of purchasing the land." At this point the conference was brought to a close after the delegation had expressed their thanks to the members of the council for their courtesy.

SEEK MISSING $3400

Officers Search Roadside and Underbrush Between Nantasket and Hingham

NANTASKET, Aug. 13.—Metropolitan park policemen armed with flashlights searched the roadside and underbrush between Nantasket and Hingham for several hours before daylight in an unsuccessful quest for $3400 in cash alleged to have been stolen from an automobile here, last night.

Four Boston men were in district court at Abington, charged with larceny in connection with the alleged theft and were held in $5000 bonds each for a later hearing.

According to the police, Joseph E. F. Legendre, a Boston real estate concern, reported that he left a bag containing the $3400 cash and war savings stamps and securities valued at $300 more in his automobile while he visited an amusement resort last evening. When he returned to the machine the bag was gone. An automobile truck which had just driven away from the place was followed and overtaken in Hingham, where the four occupants were arrested.

Legendre's bag and the war stamps and securities were found on the person of one of the officers said, but the money was missing.

Juvenile Water Circus, With Breath-Taking Stunts, Thrills Onlookers

Oh, Liek Ericsson the Lucky,
He sailed the salty sea.
He was dauntless; he was plucky—
And, by codfish, so are we!

Of Sir Francis Drake you know well,
He had nothing, though, on us.
We're the Francis Drakes of Lowell,
And we do not give a cuss!

Without a quake or shiver,
We dare a watery death.
And when we go down the river,
We'll bet you hold your breath.

Perhaps the fearless youngsters,
Who on improvised rafts knocked together
From a few discarded planks
Valiantly seek the centre of the Merrimack River near Central bridge, Don't sling the above song. But if They did, they wouldn't be exaggerating
One little bit, say we.

Especially that last line, there. "We'll bet you hold your breath!" Anyone who wants to bet that the writer
holds his breath when he gazes at some of the stunts pulled off by Lowell younglings on the Merrimack, well, he's going to win that bet,
thassall.

Every day scores of pedestrians pause as they cross the bridge that leads to Centralville, and spend many thrilling moments draped over the railing, observing with open mouth
the halfbreath feats performed upon,
or in, the waters of the swift-flowing stream. Ringling's circus never had a look-in. Even the high dives aren't lacking. A few days ago a group of boys supplied that feature by taking the leap from the railing of the bridge into the water below.

But for a real, prolonged blood-
curdling act, the youthful voyagers
shown in the photograph indubitably
corral the palm. Sometimes their rafts consist of no more than two narrow boards, which tilt dangerously, as

fully clothed, the debonnaire raftsmen light the current.

One reckless young Eddie Polo recently paddled his frail craft deliberately into the maelstrom of waters
which flowed from one of the mills
that line the shore. While the raft
rocked and whirled in the eddying
surfy water, he feverishly steered so as to avoid utter shipwreck and not improbable drowning. But throughout his exploit, he preserved a countenance of the most angelic serenity,
and when he finally was hurled with
his raft out of the danger zone, he placidly proceeded to paddle into it
again. Yes, brethren and sisters,
"We'll bet you hold your breath!" is
right.

We poor timid grown-ups hang over the bridge rail and watch the little lads feel tensing and relaxing as they clutch the boards of their craft, balancing with nice precision. Flimsy paddles direct the course of the rafts,
keep them from being overturned in
the sudden rushes of water which sometimes envelop.

Another bold trick recently introduced was the construction of a huge swing, attached to a tree which over-

hung the bank. A push, and many feet in the air. Yes, bo. The "Francis Drakes of Lowell" is correct!

MIRACULOUS RECOVERY
Woman Who Swallowed Seven Inch Hat Pin Three Months Ago Cheats Death

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Three months ago Mrs. Alla Levy swallowed a seven inch hatpin when she became excited as her small son fell off a chair. She told her husband, but he was skeptical.
Yesterday she went to a doctor and the pin which had punctured the stomach walls in three places, was removed. Today she is on the road to recovery. "She should have been dead in 24 hours," Dr.
Carl Meyer said, and Dr. Howitzman characterized the woman's recovery as a "miracle."

SINN FEINERS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Re-emphasized That Negotiations Have Not Been Broken Off

British Cabinet Takes up de Valera's Reply—Some Papers Say Answer Rejection

Declare de Valera Demands Amnesty for Irish Imprisoned or Interned

LONDON, Aug. 13.—(By the Associated Press).—Official confirmation of reports that the British government has offered Ireland a dominion status was given late today when a letter was made public at Premier Lloyd George's official residence, written by General Smuts, South African premier, to Eamonn de Valera, on Aug. 4, just before Gen. Smuts left for Africa.

Premier Lloyd George went to the country this afternoon, and no further meeting with his colleagues, so far as Ireland is concerned, is contemplated until further advice is received from Mr. de Valera. Meanwhile "negotiations are proceeding," it was announced, and from this announcement today drew their optimism.

The British prime minister, wrote General Smuts in the course of his long letter, "offers a complete dominion status to the 26 counties, subject to certain strategic safeguards which you are asked to agree to voluntarily as a free dominion. It is more than was offered the Transvaal and the Free State."

General Smuts in the letter asserted that he had been desirous of helping along an Irish settlement, but there existed an impasse which he did not know at the time how to get over. This, he said, was that both Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, and Mr. de Valera, were equally immovable in their position. The former maintaining that Ulster would not consent to a change from her present status and the republican leader insisting that Ulster come under a united Ireland constitution.

"Force as a solution of the problem," continued General Smuts, "is out of the question both on your (de Valera's) and his (Craig's) premises. The process of arriving at an agreement will therefore take time."

General Smuts explained that for this reason he considered he could be of no further use at this stage of the negotiations and therefore was going home.

Any solution on the lines of Ulster coming into an Irish state was foredoomed to failure at the present, General Smuts declared, as Ulster would not agree to this and could not be forced.

General Smuts urged Mr. de Valera to leave Ulster alone at present and concentrate on a free constitution for the remaining 26 counties of Ireland, "and through the successful running of the Irish state and the pull of economic and peaceful forces eventually bring Ulster into that state."

As I said before," reiterated General Smuts, "I don't consider one single, clean-cut solution of the Irish question possible at present."

PROBE PRICES OF ARM-CHAIR LUNCH ROOMS

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—A state-wide investigation of armchair lunch rooms, with especial reference to prices charged and quantity and quality of food served, was announced today by the commission on necessities of life. The commission said complaints had been received from a number of cities. In some instances, it was alleged that price cuts were followed by a reduction in the size of the order or lowering of the quality of the food.

State Police, Armed With Rifles, Patrol Waters in Vicinity of Detroit

Motorboats Also Pressed Into Service to Guard Against Liquor Smugglers

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—Armed with rifles, a detachment of state police today started patrolling the waters in the vicinity of Detroit with motorboats to guard against liquor smugglers from Canada.

The troopers, 75 in number, arrived here from Lansing last night and reported to Charles J. Camp, Detroit representative of the Michigan public safety commission, who has declared open warfare on the liquor smugglers.

The arrival of the state police followed reports that efforts were being made to flood the United States with intoxicants from Canada, as the result of the court ruling in Windsor that the Ontario temperance act does not forbid their export.

Camp declared he would get "every bottle of beer and whiskey that is brought over" from Canada.

A heavy increase in the number of applications for clearance of beer and whiskey for the United States during the last few days was reported from Windsor today.

BUY WASHINGTON PARK

City Council Promises to Acquire Land for Playground Purposes

The municipal council will purchase Washington park and convert it into a playground. This decision was reached at a conference held this morning between four members of the council and a committee representing the Lower Highlands Improvement association in the mayor's reception room at city hall. The city fathers present at the conference were Mayor Thompson and Commissioners Donnelly, Mar- chand and Salmons. No definite time was set for the purchase of the land, but the members of the committee were assured by the city officials present that they were all in favor of the proposition and inasmuch as there was no opposition to the project the deal would be put through as soon as the city's finances warranted it.

Representing the Lower Highlands Improvement association at the conference were Thomas J. Fitzgerald, president of the association; Rev. Joseph A. Denis, O.M.I., assistant pastor of Notre Dame de Lourdes church; Rep. Victor F. Jewett, Rep. Adolph Be- rard, Smith Adams, Joseph Provost, Louis Lord and Joseph Neumann. Supt. Kernan of the park department was also present.

The first speaker was Rev. Fr. Denis, O.M.I., who said there are four rea- sons for the purchase of the land.

Crowds Scattered When Gun Battle Broke Out in Front of Boston Police Station

Clash Followed Shooting to Death of Policeman by Former Policeman

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—North End crowds were scattered when a pistol battle broke out in front of the Hanover street police station after the shooting to death of Police- man Andrew Cunio by a former patrolman whom he was trying to disarm.

Police reserves rushed from the station and 20 shots were fired at Cunio's assailant before he was brought down with a wound in the head and another in the leg. The man, Philip F. Whelan, meanwhile had emptied his weapon at his pursuers.

A short time previously a man had reported at the station that a man with a pistol was across the street. Cunio was sent out to disarm him and Sergeant John F. Corcoran was ordered to follow with reserves. As Sergeant Corcoran got outside with his men, he saw Cunio shot down. Then Cunio's assailant turned, emptied his gun at the reserves and fled up the street.

Corcoran's men fired back and gave chase, blazing away until Whelan was stopped.

Cunio died before help could reach him. Whelan's name was put on the dangerous list at the Relief hospital. The man was said by police officers to have been discharged from the police department several years ago for alleged irresponsible acts.

Arethusa Has Thousands of Cases of Liquor—Expect Big Business Today

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 13.—The Line House on the briny, miles off No-Mans Land, is ready for a busy week-end and if the southwest breeze eases, there is every reason to believe that many a throat will be moistened before the sun sets tonight. And the throats ashore, down which will trickle the fragrant highball on Sunday, are legion. Incidentally there have been many of them in the three weeks that the old hooker Arethusa has peddled rum just outside Massachusetts waters.

Room for 7000 Cases

How much liquor there is aboard so many knows. How much she arrived with, something over three weeks ago, is not admitted, but her skipper said she came loaded to the limit and she also carried room for 7000 cases. Men supposed to be in the know say that thousands of cases have been unloaded and yet she does not ride high in the water. Fishermen say she is a bit lighter, but not as light as she ought to be.

Yesterday the opinion was expressed by men who saw her on the water that she was not afloat, but her skipper said she came loaded to the limit and she also carried room for 7000 cases. Men supposed to be in the know say that thousands of cases have been unloaded and yet she does not ride high in the water. Fishermen say she is a bit lighter, but not as light as she ought to be.

Some Yachts Call

The fisherman is not the only craft to stop and pay a visit for it is said that power boats, catboats and even yachts are on the job early and late to get a share of the Arethusa's load. Small power boats, catboats and fishermen have been largest in numbers during the daylight hours, but stray gossip says the stuff that goes over the side in daylight is piling to what happens after dark.

It is common gossip that for weeks agents have been asked that they solicited orders. They did not pick up the 100 to 1000 cases at a lick. They would not bother with small orders. At first they were not taken seriously, but the invitation to call was accepted and once aboard the massive old fisherman the callers saw before them the most massive and complete apparatus on the Arethusa was lifting heavy loads over the side.

Aboard one is greeted courteously and though the Arethusa is a whole-sale liquor shop, the visitor is allowed to name the amount he wants. Small orders are not wanted, but no one is refused. If he wants his liquor he can have any part of 1000 or more cases even though that part be but one lone quart for a tired fisherman in his dory.

American Rye Most Popular

The Scotch and Irish are excellent and so is the champagne—according to all report. They are long on the foreign goods, for strange as it may seem they have not appealed to the customers as has the rye. Judging by the demands on the rye, the big spenders have not yet hit in as was expected. Scotch is quite the proper thing, especially since prohibition, and a bit of Irish appealed to the educated palate. There are plenty of these palates in New England, but it is the old-fashioned drinker who apparently has made the greatest number of calls on the Arethusa.

Yesterday, according to all reports, was fairly quiet, for the day opened with unpropitious winds. During the night and morning there was considerable of a southwest wind, which kicked up things. Owing to the shoal water around No-Mans Land the Arethusa had to go out further than usual to prevent any international complication. It was poor weather for catboats and even the amateur swordfishermen, with their big motor boats, decided to lay off. It was no morning, so the old salts said to try and board the Arethusa and then get back in a dory with bottled goods.

Today is one of the two gala days of the week for yachtsmen and power boat enthusiasts. That is why the Arethusa skipper and crew look forward to a busy week-end. It was frequently predicted yesterday that it will be hard to get alongside the schooner, as to get into a mess line. However, good order has prevailed hitherto and it is expected that there will be no difficulty having the boats get into line and take their turn, pay their money and then return.

In case one should get the impression that it is only a short joyride to the Arethusa, "zone of safety" from here, it might be said that one can expect to travel approximately 40 miles out and back.

NEW LAKEVIEW PARK

The week end problem is readily solved with Lakeview only 4 miles distant. Car service to that popular resort is always good, and the fare has been cut in two. Variety of amusements may be had, including boating, fishing, swimming, dancing, roller coasting and bowling. The dance hall is unsurpassed in New England and Miner-Doyle's famous orchestra plays music peculiarly its own. Lakeview today is getting bigger crowds than at any time in its history. There's a reason.

HE DIDN'T TELL SON

MARION, Aug. 12.—When asked if he were going on a honeymoon, Dr. George T. Harding told local newspaper reporters that he thought he already had taken one. The couple had been to Windsor, Conn., via Detroit, before going to Monroe.

"Did your son, the president, know about the wedding?" asked a curious reporter.

"No, he didn't," replied the smiling groom. "I didn't consider it any of his business. I am old enough to know what I want to do, I guess. I was lonesome and knew Alice would make me a good wife."

Vice President Calvin Coolidge yesterday joined scores of others in extending congratulations to Dr. and Mrs. Harding. The vice president's telegram addressed from Boston to the aged father of President Harding, read:

"Heartiest congratulations from my wife and from me."

No congratulatory message was received yesterday from the president, and Dr. Harding expressed the opinion that he would "receive a letter" from his son "in a day or two."

Dr. Harding, who is 76, and his bride, formerly Miss Alice Severns, 52, who had for many years been his stenographer and office attendant, began housekeeping yesterday in the old Harding homestead at 456 East Center street. The greater part of the day, though, was passed by them at Dr. Harding's downtown office, where they received the congratulations of many callers. Dr. Harding devoted the day mainly to receiving these callers and tending to his regular office practice.

He appeared cheerful and spry as ever, while his bride beamed her pleasure, as the "home folks" put in their appearance.

200,000 STRIKE BALLOTS FOR R. R. EMPLOYEES

CINCINNATI, Aug. 13.—More than 200,000 strike ballots have been sent out to the international workers in Cincinnati of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express & Station Employees on which the members and those unaffiliated employees who care to do so will vote whether they are in favor of accepting the wage reduction ordered by the railroad labor board in a recent decision.

All ballots are returnable by Sept. 30 through general chairman of its board of adjustment.

Accompanying the ballots is a four-page letter signed by Grand President E. H. Fitzgerald in which he reviews all wage proceedings since the passage of the Cummins-Esch transportation act.

When the votes have been tabulated, the grand president will advise the chief executives of the 16 railroad labor organizations how far this brotherhood is ready to co-operate.

"There must be no stoppage of work prior to the tabulation and announcement of this vote or in the absence of instructions from the duly accredited officers of our brotherhood, and the laws of our organization must be complied with."

BIG RUSH EXPECTED WHEN SCHOOLS OPEN

Every available school room, both regular and improvised, will be packed with pupils on Monday, September 12, when all the public schools of the city will open. The first Monday after Labor Day is the regular opening date of the schools and this year there will be no change.

Although Superintendent Molloy has no definite information as to the exact number of pupils who will attend school, it is expected that there will be a very considerable increase over last year's enrollment.

The city officials will be very busy from now till the opening day in cleaning and repairing the school buildings and making everything ready for a prosperous year. At the high school extensive repairs are being made and the building is rapidly taking on a bright and new appearance.

Certain shoe stores are now using X-rays in the fitting of shoes.

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Be the Best Medicine for Girls and Women

Hamilton, Ohio.—"I had such awful pains in my back I could hardly stand on my feet and I was never without a headache. If I walked up town I thought I would drop and many a time I felt so bad I had to go to bed and I was not able to do much of my housework. I would have hemorrhages every two weeks and dragging down pains. I had been feeling badly for three years and had two of the best doctors in the city, but I kept getting worse and only weighed 125 pounds. I saw your advertisement and I took eight boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets, four bottles Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and your Liver Pills and noticed an improvement right away. Now I weigh 188 pounds and feel fine. Everybody tells me how well I look and asks me what I took and I always say, 'Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the best medicine in the world for any sickness to which girls and women are subject.' I will always have a good word for your medicine and you may use my name whenever you wish."

U. S. DELEGATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(By the Associated Press) Any expectation that President Harding will himself act as a delegate to the disarmament conference was overturned yesterday by a White House announcement that he had definitely designated Secretary of State Hughes to head the American delegation.

It was said that other members were yet to be chosen, although the president is known to have narrowed considerably the list of those he considered available. It is understood to have decided that at least one of the places shall go to a United States senator, and the choice of a woman is within the range of possibility.

The general expectation is that after delivering the opening address of the conference on Nov. 11 the president will remain in the background of the negotiations, but keeping in close touch with the proceedings.

By this course Mr. Harding will be in a position similar to that of President Poincare of France when he opened the Versailles conference and then retired. President Harding's close advisers are said to feel that by keeping away from details of disarmament discussions he can reserve his efforts for the more important features of the peace and in an act as mediator for all the delegates in any disagreement that might threaten the success of the conference.

The president also has turned over to the state department the task of clearing away all the details remaining to be disposed of before the conference meets. It is understood that he intends to supervise only the more important moves.

ATTACHMENT FILED

An attachment in the sum of $1,000 has been filed at the local registry of deeds office against Anthony Selkinis of Wilmington in an action of contract brought by Leon Wenckus.

UNLAWFUL DEALINGS IN NARCOTIC DRUGS

Two local doctors were arrested for alleged unlawful dealings in narcotic drugs this morning by Sergeant Philip Dwyer and Officer Joseph Lamoureux on federal warrants. It was at first reported that the two doctors were to be placed in custody of a United States marshal, but later they were held in bonds of $500 each.

It is stated that the arrests follow extensive investigations by federal officials in co-operation with Officers Conroy and Clark of the Lowell department. The local officers, it is said, deserve much of the credit for actively against alleged illicit drug transactions here. It is also stated that the two arrests made this morning are the result of some clever detective work by Clark and Conroy, aided by a police "spotter."

Lieutenant Martin Maher, this morning received the federal warrants charging dealings in drugs contrary to the government regulations, and these were turned over to Sergeant Dwyer and Officer Lamoureux, who were dispatched to execute them. For many weeks rumors have been afloat of secret federal investigations of an unlawful drug traffic in Lowell, but no confirmation of the reports came until this morning.

ANOTHER NEW ONE! ICE CREAM SICKNESS!

Lowell has an epidemic of sickness following the eating of ice cream. This became known at the headquarters of the health department, where it was learned that many letters have been received telling of illness produced by the summer dainty. In consequence a warning has been issued, reminding dealers of ice cream regulation 13, which specifies that no old or melted ice cream, or ice cream for any cause returned to the manufacturer, shall again be made use of in preparing more ice cream. Re-frozen cream is blamed for the casualties reported.

Dabs of Powder and Paint Make 'em Look What They Ain't

AGNES AYRES, A PARAMOUNT PLAYER, SHE SHOWS HOW SHE MAKES HERSELF LOOK OLD WITH GREASEPAINT. BUT THAT AIN'T THE HALF OF IT, DEARIE. MANY OF THE STARS USE IT TO MAKE THEMSELVES LOOK YOUNGER.

BY JAMES W. DEAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Unless you have visited a movie studio you can hardly imagine what a grotesque, very place it is.

Here comes a hideous monster with skin as yellow as ochre, eyes set in lines of blue, and an ugly yellow wig that grates upon the sensibilities.

You are wondering if she is to appear as an apparition in a nightmare episode in the picture, when someone says, "I want you to meet Miss So-and-so."

You gulp a bit and try to hide your embarrassment because this very self-same woman is one of the best known stars, and now that her name has been spoken you readily recognize her.

"But why all this dreadful makeup?" It's this way—the studio lights cause strange effects and the capricious eye of the camera registers these effects.

And so in order to appear on the screen as she appears in life the actress must use makeup that gives her the appearance of her antithesis. Yellow grease paint is used by actresses to give the appearance of a white skin. Flesh tints are used by actors to give that ruddy, outdoor complexion.

Blonds use a blue liner about the eyes to throw the eye into relief. Brunettes use a black or brown liner to achieve the contrast.

Screen makeup affords many opportunities for camera deceptions. A bald spot, covered with dark grease paint, will not show in the film. Double chins are masked off in the same fashion.

face into relief by masking her neck with dark grease paint and blending the face that just below the chin.

Exceptional care must be taken in the adjustment of a beard, as the camera is merciless in showing sharply contrasted lines.

In a production in which a number of bearded men appear the director often orders the men in the cast to grow natural beards. This was done in "The Tamer," a Paramount picture.

Players make up neck, shoulders, arms and chest whenever they are exposed before the camera, for the lens would otherwise show them of different hue.

The director must also constantly keep in mind the photographic qualities of various colors. A royal robe is supposed to be purple, but if purple were worn it would appear gray in the finished film. Blue appears as white and red as black.

So it is easy to see why "little dabs of powder, little dots of paint help to make a pensive queen look like what she ain't."

THIS REACTION
Several weeks ago this writer called attention to the exploitation of the trade name of a breath lozenge in a title that followed a superfluous scene in "The Conquest of Canaan."

Exhibitors in many cities wrote to the producers' offices to criticize the injection of what seemed to be advertising in the film.

The producers now say that the scene and the subtitles referred to have been eliminated from all prints of "The Conquest of Canaan." They assert that the scene and title were injected in the play simply to get a laugh.

However, the fact remains that many pictures suffer from the injection of scenes and subtitles which add nothing to the story, yet appear of advantage to the manufacturers of nationally advertised articles. These instances are not confined to any one company's films.

CINEMAGRAMS
"The Lure of Jade" Pauline Frederick's next.

"The Secret of Butte Ridge" is the first of Tom Santschi's new series of two-reel westerns. Ruth Stonehouse plays opposite him.

Add Theda Bara to the list of film players who are picking up pin money during the dull season by making personal appearances.

Dorothy Gish, who weighs less than 90 pounds, has the leading role in "Chicken Hearted," a one-reel comedy.

Elliott Dexter is to have the leading role in "Grand Larceny," written for Goldwyn by Albert Payson Terhune. Claire Windsor will be his leading lady.

Bayard Veiller, director, says there are ten rules for making pictures. "The first one is entertainment," he says. "I have forgotten the other nine."

COUNTERFEITERS WORK BEHIND PRISON BARS

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 12.—A counterfeiting plot hatched at the Ohio state penitentiary at Mansfield by prisoners who carried out their work of manufacturing and circulating bogus bank notes for months within prison walls, was revealed by United States secret service agents here yesterday. The plot was discovered by a tip from a "trustee."

As a result two prisoners, who are to be paroled soon, will be arrested upon their release and turned over to the federal authorities.

AFTER "SUIT CLUB" PROMOTERS
Superintendent Edmund Welch, who recommended a "suit club" to local people who were "gyped" thereby, is now hot on the trail of the culprits.

He visited Boston recently and made a recommendation to Attorney Brickley that the metropolis that the promoters of the swindle be apprehended. The chief says that Brickley guaranteed the proposition.

ARRESTED FOR HAULING DOWN BRITISH FLAG

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Much secrecy is maintained in local official naval circles with regard to the information that comes from Bar Harbor, Me., that three young men, members of the American Naval Radio station there, on Saturday morning last, lowered a British flag from its staff, where it floated in honor of a British ship in the harbor, and placed it under an American flag on a flagpole nearby. The three young men were placed under arrest by the naval authorities at Bar Harbor, immediately following the incident, and the matter having been reported to the commandant of the Charlestown navy yard, which has jurisdiction over the Maine station, the men were on Monday taken to Boston.

Neither Lieutenant Steve V. Edwards, commanding officer of the Naval Radio station at Bar Harbor, nor Admiral Cleave of the Charlestown navy yard, who is in charge of the First Naval district, would either affirm or deny the story last night. It is believed on credible authority that the incident has been reported to the navy department at Washington and that action will be taken there with regard to the disposition of the charges against the three young men of the navy.

Quarter Century Ago

From the old Sun:
"MONTREAL, Aug. 7.—The St. Hyacinthe chamber of commerce today adopted a resolution approving the action of the national banks in charging a discount of ten per cent. on all American money and treating the people not to accept American money under any circumstances."

That sounds strange considering the fact that the American dollar is now honored in all the markets in the world. Quarter of a century ago, some countries claimed that American currency would be depreciated by the change to the silver standard, or as they termed it, cheap money.

In 1896, the tax rate was $15 which was the lowest reached for seventeen years or more.

Under a democratic mayor the tax rate of Lowell for 1896 is lower than in many years.

The assessors announced this morning that this year's tax rate will be $15 per thousand which is remarkably low and the result of a democratic government.

It is needless to state that real estate owners are made happy by the announcement.

The rates for six years have been as follows: 1891, $15.00; 1892, $16.00; 1893, $16.40; 1894, $17.40; 1895, $18; 1896, $15. The rates for subsequent years are: 1897, $17.40; 1898, $18; 1899, $19.60; 1900, $18.80; 1901, $18.60; 1902, $19.60; 1903, $20.40; 1904, $20; 1905, $20.20; 1906, $19.60; 1907, $19.40; 1908, $20.40; 1909, $19.60; 1910, $19.60; 1911, $19.60; 1912, $19; 1913, $21.40; 1914, $21.90; 1915, $20.80; 1916, $21.20; 1917, $23.40; 1918, $23.80; 1919, $26 and 1920, $27.20.

The Knapp Cure Craze
Many Lowell residents will remember the craze that swept over this and other countries about twenty-five years ago as a result of the alleged cures of nervous diseases affected through the treatment recommended by Rev. Fr. Sebastian Knapp, of Germany. It consisted of walking barefoot on dewy grass in the early morning in the summer time. It is described in the following from the Sun of that time:

"A great deal of interest is taken in New York and other cities of this country in the prospective arrival of Fr. Sebastian Knapp, of Germany, the famous water-cure physician. Already Knapp societies have been formed in New York, and several ladies in trying this cure in the public parks there, have been arrested. His cure consists mainly in walking barefoot in the dewy grass in the early morning. This is a specific cure for some kinds of nervous disease; many distinguished people have taken the cure and found relief. Pope Leo the Thirteenth is among those who have testified to its efficacy for nervous trouble. Fr. Knapp came to discover the cure by reading a scientific book, which he applied with certain improvements."

"It is expected that his arrival in this country will cause great sensation because his cures will be sought by thousands, inasmuch as he is famous the world over for his cure of certain diseases."

An editorial call that for a time had a branch in this city came to the fore some years later and improved upon Fr. Knapp's cure by having the patients roll on the dewy grass in the nude in the early mornings. That was practiced in Lowell for a time until the patients became somewhat embarrassed by the number of neighbors who became interested in the cure to the extent of watching very closely how it was "taken."

Lowell Seen Through Strange Eyes
Subjoined is a very interesting letter to the old Sun by J. W. Fletcher, son of Marcellus H. Fletcher, the latter a well known democratic worker for many years in Lowell. Mr. J. W. Fletcher was a spiritualistic clairvoyant or expounder of the occult with an office in New York. His services were sought by wealthy ladies who paid him large sums for his counsel and advice on matters past, present and future. The letter:

"The following is a decidedly in-

Agree to Meet Mexican Representatives

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 13.—China, Spain and Holland have accepted President Obregon's recent invitation to appoint a commission to meet Mexican representatives and adjust claims for damage suffered by their nationals during the last 10 years of revolution in this country, says a semi-official report.

AUTO MECHANIC FOR POSTOFFICE SERVICE

The United States civil service commission announces an open competitive examination for filling the position of general automobile mechanic in the postoffice service in Lowell, at a salary of $1600 to $1800 per annum.

No written examination is required but applicants will be rated on their physical condition and experience by their applications.

"The city has improved greatly in regard to cleanliness, the streets that is the principal thoroughfare, are especially well taken care of. Whether due to religious motives would be difficult to say. The old adage 'Cleanliness is next to godliness' may or not be the inspiring motive. Quite more likely that it was unseemly and unhygienic as well as dangerous to public health and that these guardians of humanity's well realized this and are governed accordingly. Sure it is that few if any of the neighboring cities compare with Lowell in this direction and well, there is still room for improvement which will doubtless be apparent as time goes on."

"Now we find this lady, like many other Americans, one of the many leaders in the gay whirl of Parisian life. One can scarcely imagine to see the elegant carriage dashing up the Champs Elysees that the dowager clad in shining silks and glittering with diamonds nodding here and there with a patronizing smile to men and women of note that here in Lowell of all the world is the one place she used to call home. The old friends of early days are forgotten and new associations quite different from those of other days are formed and vast the current of life flows on."

Another fine estate still stands in aristocratic loneliness with its air of exclusive exclusiveness, the late residence of General B. F. Butler, who as a man was quite as unique as any Lowell ever produced. He rendered great service to the country in its hour of dire distress, to the state when chosen to govern it by unmasking some of the blackest hypocrites in the memory of man, and as a lawyer he proved his great ability, not to say absolute genius on many occasions. He has joined that great majority, who, it is hoped at least, dwell above the noise and jar of this weary world, and when the impartial historian shall in future years, write the story of his life, many a noble battle and determined effort and numberless hours of kindness will be accorded to his name. All this brings back to mind those old days, never mind how long ago, when Blanche Butler, as she was then called, was everywhere admired for her surpassing beauty and affability of mien. Whenever she appeared, whether in Washington or elsewhere, she readily was acknowledged a belle and was much beloved. Time has not dimmed the radiance of those early years and today in her

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatre's Own Press Agents.)

MERRIMACK SQ. THEATRE

"Broken Hearts" enacted by a special cast and "A Bit of Kindling" are the feature attractions which will be shown at the Sunday concert. "Broken Hearts" is a drama that will tug at your heartstrings and hold your interest until the very end. "A Bit of Kindling" the second feature on the bill is modern drama of today portrayed by a cast of well known screen favorites.

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the coming week a program of popular Paramount pictures has been arranged. The popular screen star Wallace Reid in "Too Much Speed" is the main feature on the bill while "Crazy to Marry" starring the round-comedienne Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle makes up the second feature on the bill. The audience attending performances on warm days are discovering to their great delight that the warmer it is outside the cooler it is at the popular Palace street playhouse. The popularity of automobile racing stories in which Wallace Reid has appeared a several times has resulted in the screening of "Too Much Speed" another original story with the race track as a background. This picture is a continuation of his last picture, "What's Your Hustle" which was met with much approval from the Lowell theatregoers. The picture opens with Dusty Rhodes withdrawing from the racing game and he plans for his wedding with a reader, Miss MacMurray. While Dusty and Pat MacMurray are on their way home in a limousine, a rival dealer, whom Dusty had formerly represented in racing events, passes them in a car. Dusty's sporting blood is aroused and he speeds up the limousine and passes his rival but ends in a ditch. MacMurray is angry and calls off the wedding, whereupon Dusty takes the waiting bride and glances at a reader, Miss MacMurray and at the first small town, both are sent to prison for speeding. Having served his term Dusty leaves jail determined to enter the race. With Virginia's help he secretly buys Pat's racing car. From then on the story is just one long thrill after another. Agnes Ayres is Reid's leading lady and Theodore Roberts plays the part of her father.

Good Fatty Arbuckle never fails to please and amuse his audiences and in "Crazy to Marry" his latest Paramount picture he again proves that he is the screen's leading comedian. In this picture he plays the part of a prominent surgeon whose pet theory is that a thief can be cured by a brain operation. While operating on his subject Dago Red he suddenly remembers that he has an engagement to be married. He rushes out in an attempt to arrive at the wedding in time. From this time on the fun becomes a real and furious. Lila Lee is charming in the role of a famous woman, and the third that she shall know the touch of baby arms. And she gets each one of these wishes, but in ways that are most unusual. The husband who neglected his wife was not, fortunately enough, in love with another woman. He was wholly engrossed with his business and his wife played an all too small part in his life. "Beyond Price" is a comedy feature with a serious vein to it, and the story is of the sort we might expect Miss Walton to appear in—the kind where something happens every minute.

"The Man Tamer" with 18-year-old Gladys Walton in the title part, is the second underlined feature for the first part of the week, and it is alive with sensational climaxes. Miss Walton plays the part of a lion tamer, and she enters a cage filled with the big beasts, although, let it be said, a professional trainer is with her. Here is a story that will tickle the pulse.

That master of all oriental actors and the equal of many of the most noted white players, Sessue Hayakawa, will be seen in "Where Light Are Low," the latter half of the week. To secure this production much money had to be spent for New York, at the Capitol theatre, went by thousands for three solid weeks. It is a poetic love story on a plane quite above much that we see, and the noted actor surrounds himself with a cast that holds noted Japanese actors. Gloria Foyton plays the part of the pretty maid who was elevated to the position of a princess. The second feature is "Cheated Love," with Carmel Myers, a great emotional actress, in the leading role. The comedies and international reviews of events will be shown at every performance.

THE STRAND
A Story of Three Wishes Come True Headlines Bill the First Half of Next Week

Tomorrow afternoon and evening "The Jack Knife Man," with an all-star cast and big time vaudeville will be shown at the Strand theatre.

Beginning Monday next week and continuing through Tuesday and Wednesday, "Beyond Price," with the famous Pearl White in the big part, will be featured. In this picture the neglected wife makes three great wishes in a wishing book, one that she shall become the wife of a millionaire, another that she shall be a famous woman, and the third that she shall know the touch of baby arms. And she gets each one of these wishes, but in ways that are most unusual. The husband who neglected his wife was not, fortunately enough, in love with another woman. He was wholly engrossed with his business and his wife played an all too small part in his life. "Beyond Price" is a comedy feature with a serious vein to it, and the story is of the sort we might expect Miss Wal-

LONDON, Aug. 13.—A middle-aged man, whose father was a famous roughrider in Australia and whose son is already a promising jockey, has swept all before him this year on the English race tracks.

He is Frank Bullock.

His name is being ranked with those of Fred Archer, Tod Sloan, Danny Maher and Frank Wootton.

In many ways Bullock's career is more unique and varied than those celebrated riders.

Born in Australia, he became an exceptionally good rider.

Rode for Kaiser

When he came to Europe one of his memorable jobs was to ride horses for the ex-kaiser.

At that time Reggie Day, an English trainer, had charge of William Hohenzollern's Royal Gratitude stud.

But just a few weeks ago Bullock, in four days of racing, rode winners in nine races at the Ascot race meet, something none of his predecessors ever did.

Bullock rode two winners the first day, three on each of the second and third, and one on the last.

Paris Winner

In between times, on Sundays, he shipped over to Paris and rode winners in the French Oaks and the French Derby.

Last year he won the Grand Prix de Paris on an English horse.

The last compilation made of his work in the saddle this season so far showed that out of 215 mounts he rode 55 to victory, piloted 28 to second place and 19 to third place.

He is still riding in super-form.

His son, F. L. Bullock, has all the earmarks of becoming as famous in the saddle as his father.

With such a teacher, he has a big advantage over other young jockeys.

Several Good Ball Games on Today

This afternoon at Spaulding park the Lowell Knights of Columbus will play the Bennett A.A. of Somerville.

The pitchers will be Jim Davidson for Lowell and Martin, a former Boston national player, for the visitors.

The Broadways will play the Hingham naval team on the South common at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon.

Some good baseball is likely to result from this match as it is said that the teams are very evenly matched.

On the Textile school campus the C. M.A.C. and the P. and Q. team of Haverhill will go at it hammer and tongs. Many fans will be on hand to see the battle.

MRS. MALLORY MEETS MISS GOSS TODAY

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 13.—The match between Mrs. Mollie Blumstein Mallory, the national title holder and Miss Eleanor Goss, both of New York, in the final for the women's tennis trophy in the singles stands forth as one of the features today. Both have been playing ably. Miss Goss distinguished herself by her victory over Miss Mary K. Browne, Los Angeles, in the semi-final round.

The final in the men's doubles, which will be the first of the matches decided this afternoon, brings two of the eastern stars into action.

Vincent Richards and S. Howard Voshell, New York, the national indoor champions, will be opposed by Watson M. Washburn and R. Yorick Williams, 2nd., members of the Davis cup team.

GOLF TOURNAMENT POSTPONED

The state open tournament which is to be held at the Vesper country club has been postponed from Sept. 3 to Oct. 7 and 8. It is planned to make the affair a two-day tournament instead of a single day of play as originally intended. Thomas Southam, who is in charge of the match play at the club, is doing everything in his power to make the tournament a great success. Francis Outman, the Lowell favorite, will be among the contenders.

Suzanne Lenglen Arrived at New York Today—To Try Skill With American Stars

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis champion, arrived today on the steamship Paris, to try the skill of America's women stars on their home courts.

Representatives of the United States Lawn Tennis association and the American committee for devastated France went to the pier to greet

the French queen of the courts and planned to escort her this afternoon to a tennis court where she could start limbering up for her campaign.

Her first match is scheduled for Monday, with Miss Ethel Goss as opponent.

Regains N. E. Lightweight Title in Battle With Clinton—Shubert Beaten

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Jimmy Frizzetti of Brockton is another boxer to be added to the role of those who won back their title. He did so last night at the Army A. show in Mechanics building when he won back the New England lightweight championship from Johnny Clinton in 10 rounds.

For the first six rounds it looked as if Clinton was going to retain the title. He did some good punching in close, and hooked Frizzetti many times on the jaw with the left, besides landing some good body punches with both hands.

Frizzetti did some good countering on the body with the right. From that session till the end of the bout Clinton boxed more at long range, and that was what caused him to lose the title. Frizzetti kept driving rights and lefts to the body and face. Clinton made little effort to do any of his clever close-range boxing.

The battle between Dan Dowd, New England heavyweight champion, and Ted Jamieson of Milwaukee was won by Dowd at the end of eight rounds.

In the second round, Jamieson broke a bone in his right hand, but he continued to fight, despite the pain.

When he came back to his corner after the eighth round, his manager, Eddie Mack, saw that Jamieson could not fight under such condition and ordered the referee to give the award to Dowd.

Kid-Kansas of Providence won the decision over Young Bova of the West End in the opening eight-round bout.

Jack Mansfield of Lawrence and Tony Julian of Brockton fought four rounds, and Mansfield's second, seeing he had no chance, threw in the towel and Julian was declared the winner.

ELKINS BEATS SHUBERT

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 13.—Charles K. A. Elkins of Boston won the decision over Al Shubert of this city at the Cyclotron last night.

The battling was fierce throughout, the bout being one of the best events seen here for years. Elkins' vicious left hook to the jaw was the deciding factor.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

CUBS PROTEST PIRATES' VICTORY

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—Manager Killefer of the Chicago Cubs has protested the second game played here with the Pirates in a double header Thursday. Killefer claimed that had a foul fly been caught by the Pirates in the 11th inning of the game, it would have been impossible to make the catch as park employees were there unloading a team's preparatory to laying it over the home plate.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Monday night a Twilight game will be held on the South common between the Contravilles and the South Ends. If the South Ends win they will be tied for second place with the Highland Daylights and it will be necessary to play another game to determine the final league standing. If the Contravilles win the Daylights will automatically take second money.

WILDFIRE

By Newspaper Enterprise

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Joe Kelly, famed as a major league baseball scout, while tramping through the streets of the New York Yankees sees everything Kelly's opinion of the merits of the minors is not to be sneezed at.

"Who is the best looking minor league you have seen?" Joe was asked.

"Wildfire Frank Schulte," was Joe's reply.

Of course, Kelly is aware, as is every other man who follows baseball, that Schulte is 35 and has been playing a score of years.

He starred with the Cubs so long ago that the average fan has to resort to the books to get the facts. They remember "Wildfire" hitting out home runs when the Cubs were famous under Frank Chance, but Frank had passed out of their minds.

Schulte is now playing right field for Syracuse, is batting .319 and has made twelve home runs.

He had a bad year in 1920 and they thought he was through. But he came back better than ever this season and looks like the "Wildfire" of his early nineteen hundreds.

Bay State Boy Rumerup to Hornsby in National League Batting Race

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Clarence Twombly, who has been alternating between playing the outfield for the Cubs and acting as premier pinch hitter, is closing the gap between himself and Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis star for batting honors in the National league. The Chicagoan tacked on five more points to his batting average and is the runner up to Hornsby with an average of .372. Hornsby dropped five points but continued to top the list with .410. Pop Young, of New York is third with .359.

George Kelly, of the Giants, cracked out his 15th home run during the past week and is leading the circuit drive hitters, his closest rivals being Hornsby and Mellickey of St. Louis, each of whom have 15.

Elston, New York, made three bases since the completion of the previous figures and is showing the way to the base stealers with 34 thefts. Hornsby, broke the tie which he shared with Fitch for runs scored and is leading this department. He registered 69 times.

Other leading batters: Cuthshaw, Pittsburgh, .351; Mellickey, St. Louis, .346; Nicholson, Boston, .345; Cruise, Boston, .342; Roush, Cincinnati, .339; Fournier, St. Louis, .338; Meusel, New York, .335; Mann, St. Louis, .335.

Babe Ruth, the home run king, is many days ahead of his 1920 circuit drive record. The Yankee slugger crashed out his 44th homer in the game Friday between New York and the Athletics. Ruth has only to make 11 more to surpass his record.

Harry Heilmann, the Detroit slugging outfielder struck a slump in his batting and although he continues to top the players who have participated in 60 or more games, his average went from .423 to .417. Ty Cobb, his manager, who is the runner-up also slumped, his mark being .387. Tobin of St. Louis moved up to third position with an average of .372, with Ruth next with an average of .359, two points in front of Tris Speaker, who dropped from third place. Speaker's mark is .357.

S. Harris of Washington, failed to add to his string of stolen bases and is showing the way with 20 thefts.

Other leading batters: Plagstad, Detroit, .351; Shier, St. Louis, .350; Williams, St. Louis, .347; Seaver, St. Louis, .345; E. Collins, .347.

HABIT! IT PLAYS BIG PART IN OUR GAMES

By DEAN SNYDER

George Duncan, invading British golfer, is becoming Americanized quickly.

He has cast aside his coat. Britons at home wear their coats while playing, owing to climatic conditions. Wearing them is so much a habit that they feel ill at ease without them.

Duncan says he feels too loose in his swing without it.

Vardon and Ray, on their 1920 tour, stuck to their coats in spite of the heat.

Habit plays a mighty big part in athletics.

FRANKNESS

The first thing Miss Alexa Sterling said when she arrived home from Europe, where she failed to win their golf titles, was that "they have excellent players and wonderful golf courses."

She might have blamed her defeat on poor courses and freaky playing of her opponents, as some losers do.

Miss Alexa is the best of champions we like to have in America.

Mike Gibbons is piling up a record for fighting. Three wins in a week over Augie Ratner, Gus Platts and Joe Williams have planned him at Johnny Wilson's fight arena.

This raises the question of how many good fights a fellow has under his belt without taking time to recuperate.

Gibbons nods the going easy.

Jack Dempsey has often expressed a desire to fight every night if he could get the opportunity.

Fighting is a tough game. When going it every other night, it is impossible to be at one's best.

ROMANCE

Yale plans to drop secret football practice this fall to stimulate interest.

But will it?

When eleven drill behind closed gates, there are dozens of tales of the prowess of stars that emanate to the fans on the outside.

Some are true, some aren't. But there's romance in all of them.

PROSPERITY

Football calls already are being sent out. The gridiron will have its biggest year this fall.

Attendance records were smashed last year. They'll be bigger this season.

Great football teams are no longer confined to the east.

They have vander teams on the Pacific coast now. Also they are found in remote villages such as Danville, Ky., the home of the famed Centre eleven with plays Harvard Oct. 29.

BRAVES SIGN THREE PLAYERS

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—The signing of three new players was announced today by the Boston National League club. The trio, all from this state, are Catcher Duffy O'Brien of Brighton; Pitcher Al Davidson of Brookline, and Infielder Tim Dooly of Brookline, O'Brien, who graduated from Boston College last year, was catcher on the varsity nine for three seasons.

RUTH PLAYS BRILLIANTLY

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Babe Ruth not only hit his 147th home run of the season in yesterday's game between the New York and Philadelphia American League clubs, but performed brilliantly in the field. In the first he caught Johnny Stricker's fly; in the fourth he executed a spectacular running catch of Tilly Walker's short but high fly back of shortstop. In the sixth he backed against the wall after a snarl in his right and got a long drive by Hasty.

SAM LANGFORD WINS

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 13.—Sam Langford won a decision over Lee Anderson of Oakland, Cal., at the end of their 10 round bout here last night. The fight was the first to be staged under the new Nebraska boxing law.

We'll Forget His Swing
But Not His Clover

JIM BARNES AND HIS SWING. WHICH HELPED HIM WIN GOLF TITLE.

Jim Barnes, new open golf champion, has qualified for the "chew something club" of athletic stars.

Barnes gives the little sprig of clover which he tightly held between his teeth part credit for his victory.

The clover steadied his nerves when he needed steadiness most, he said.

Tris Speaker, leader of the Cleveland Indians, starts chewing grass when his club gets in a hole and there is quick thinking to be done.

Ted Ray, winner of the national open in 1920, played with a blar pipe in his teeth.

Pop Geers, veteran race driver, continually chews on a cigar.

Barney Oldfield, motorcar speed demon, also chews on a cigar when under the strain of driving long races.

Little thing—clover!—stamp color on our great athletes.

Barnes is now reaping a harvest from the prestige given him by winning America's greatest golf honor.

For people who saw Barnes achieve his greatest triumph, will remember how he swung his club. But they'll never forget the dangling bit of luck clover which he held in his mouth.

Real Estate Transactions—Building Notes and Permits Issued

Large Kitchen and Generous Dining Room Features of This Colonial Style Home

This is another of the model home plans furnished The Sun by the Curtis Service Bureau of Clinton, Ia., experts in interior and exterior woodwork.

Many people have become accustomed to thinking of a Colonial house
as a house of clapboards, painted white—a house with gables, green shutters, and a veranda. Yet shingles,
brick or stucco are often advantageously used in houses of Colonial type.

It would be hard to imagine anything more simple than this severity house, 20 feet by 59 feet, with its plain gabled roof, balanced chimneys and symmetrically placed openings. There is not, however, the least suggestion of monotony or bar-reness. The plain white of the porch roof, instead of heavy posts, Quaint shutters are decorative, and

This vestibule and the rear entry
on the opposite side of the house,
both within the rectangle of the main
structure, form an interesting alcove
on the long inside wall of the living room. Here a davenport or piano
would have an admirable location,
just opposite the hearth. The living room extends the entire depth of the house, having windows on three sides,
and a French door leading to the secluded side porch. At the far end, a built-in seat beneath the window has bookcases on each side. The lid of the seat is hinged, so this space, too, is utilized.

Kitchen Is Convenient
There is a generous dining alcove,
with built-in table and benches. It
is reached from the vestibule and separated from the kitchen by a cased opening.

Every possible convenience is provided in the kitchen for lightening the burdens of housework. The sink occupies a light working place with a pleasant outlook, under one window. Windows on adjacent sides, and
the rear door opening on a third side,
insure against disagreeable smoke, odors and heat. Two cupboards are built-in.

In the rear entrance the refrigerator has a cool place, convenient
from within and from without. Delivery shelves may be put here. The basement stairs in this position save intrusion into the kitchen, when laundry clothes or ashes are to be brought up.

The central stair divides the upstairs into two nearly equal halves.
One half is divided between the main
bedroom and bath, the other between two smaller bedrooms. Each bedroom has a clothes closet; the third has also a built-in tray case, that answers all the need for a chiffonier.

Cross-ventilation is gained for every bedroom on account of corner
location. In the hall there is a case
for linens enclosed by an interior
door of regular size and design.

This is a house which may face
north or west, or if reversed, south
or east. It is attractive from either
an end or front view.

Since the Colonial house is properly a white house, both within and without, the porchwork, window
bars, entrance door, and all frames
painted green, the roof should be white. If the shutters are painted green, the roof should be stained to match. Within, the woodwork may be enameled, the stair being white with mahoganyized treads and hand
rail.

considerable political distinction, and
is still young enough to have a future.
Who knows—but then we won't speculate.

Then there is the Livingstone mansion which, like Mt. Olympus, still holds aloof from the rest of the world, the one dream of my boyish fancy. Nor must one forget the new mansion which in splendor will out-rival all the others, Mr. Coran's magificent place on Marlborough street.
Whatever social influence this will have in the future remains yet to be seen, certainly there has been exenditure of money enough if that was the only thing, but possibly it isn't.
With great wealth there goes also somehow of responsibility and a man thus endowed can if he will,
make his name a joy in the community.

I cannot speak of the many lovely little houses with which Lowell
abounds, nestled in among the trees,
surrounded by flowers, and blooming shrubs, carefully cared for, watched over and guarded. But I am sure no
city of its size has more to be proud of in this direction than has Lowell.

J. W. F.

The Ayer residence referred to is now occupied as an orphanage and the Coran residence as a hospital; the Butler residence now occupied by Mrs. Anna H. Field, widow of Paul Butler. Mr. Field was mayor of Lowell and about the time
this article was written, he was widely mentioned as a candidate for congress but as he rejected the free silver platform on which Bryan was nominated, he issued a statement announcing that he would not be a candidate. His collection of animals included deer, a swan, an ostrich, a peacock and various kinds of water fowl.
He had a little pond stocked with fish. His residence has been changed
over for renting purposes, and the land formerly devoted to his monastic, has been sold and built upon
so that the old place has little resemblance of what it was when it impressed Mr. Fletcher as a visitor to our city. I wish to direct the reader's attention to what he said of our streets, their good condition and cleanliness. At that time, the tax rate was $16, but now it is $30, and our streets were never so bad. Is this a sign of progress or the reverse? The people may draw their own conclusions.

If we were to mention some of the more notable buildings erected within the last twenty-five years we should simply name the Normal school, the Textile school, The Sun building, the Massachusetts storehouse and the big storehouse in Jackson street. The new high school and the auditorium
now nearing completion will give Lowell a degree of distinction for fine buildings above some other cities to which she has held second place in the past. With these buildings finished and our public streets made fairly respectable, Lowell would hold
a high rank among cities of her class.

President Returns From Vacation
To Face Bunch of Joy Killers

Discordant and Divided Members of Republican Party Deep in Mire of Divided Opinions—Ex-Service Men Appreciate Work Done in Their Behalf by Senator David I. Walsh

(Special to The Sun)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 13.—The joy may be pretty well taken out of President Harding's vacation in the White mountains, when he faces the discordant and divided members of his party who stayed on the job and got deeper into the mire of divided opinions as to what the party policy should take next. Tariff, revenue, beer, and anti-hered, details about national and international measures soon to be brought to the front are in a decided tangle and it will require all Mr. Harding's tact, good nature and diplomacy to unravel it. And if it is done at all, it must be done by the personal efforts of Mr. Harding himself. A certain faction will follow Senators Borah, Konyan, and other progressives whose ideas are frequently of a radical kind, but the rank and file of the republicans in both senate and house are not good followers.

The tremendous influx of new members on the majority side of the senate make an unmanageable team, which has not yet learned the need of team work to make a party success, nor have they agreed, even among themselves, as to a leader. In fact, they seem to have but little idea that a leader of a party, as represented in congress, is just as necessary as a leader during a campaign. A majority of 43 votes in the senate and a majority of 96 votes in the house are absolutely necessary to secure the passage of any measure—and that majority cannot be obtained, if every man takes the bit into his teeth and runs away, regardless of who or what follows. Republicans who have had legislative experience know this and they depend on President Harding to bring into line the new men, who though they may have reached years of discretion, in reckoning birthdays, are somewhat childish in their tendency to kick over party traces.

Walsh Aids Veterans

Senator David I. Walsh has stood his ground with unflinching zeal, all through the terrific heat which has crumpled Washingtonians to the dust this year. Mr. Walsh was determined to see to it that the disabled veterans of the great war were provided with better hospital facilities; that they were not neglected or turned aside, to wait the convenience of any officials by whom their cases must be considered. And he won out. He went before the conferees of the senate and house, when the bills on these matters were being discussed and it is largely due to his untiring efforts that the Sweet bill came out of congress in a shape that will be of tremendous benefit to the maimed and wounded men now in hospitals and private sanitariums.

The ex-service men have made known to the senator that great appreciation of the work he has done in their behalf.

In fact Massachusetts congressmen and senators worked with a will over the passage of the Sweet bill. Its terms incorporated to a very great extent the admirable bill for a similar purpose, introduced last year by Congressman John Jacob Rogers of Lowell and Mr. Rogers was in urging the passage of the present bill and in safeguarding the interests of the veterans, while the bill was before the house for debate.

The Sweet bill cuts much red tape, and its friends predict that within a few months great improvement will be shown in the management of all matters pertaining to veteran benefits.

Democratic Floor Leader

Representative Garrett of Tennessee, democratic floor leader during the absence of Mr. Kitchin on account of illness, has spiked the wheels of the distribution of German war trophies to 45 states. Whether he will set them in motion again remains to be seen. It came about this way. Some one discovered that there was no fund for the payment of the expense of transporting the cannon, etc., to the various states. So some one introduced a bill authorizing the expenditure of $400,000 for that purpose. Then Mr. Garrett stepped in. He did more. He talked with power and eloquence against the measure, and the debate lasted five long, hot, weary hours, at the end of which time the bill was sent back to the military committee for repairs and alterations. Mr. Garrett wants each state to assume the expense of transportation, etc., instead of getting a free gift from the government. The bill was further amended to provide distribution by congressional delegations instead of governors or other state officials. Chairman Kahn of the military committee stated that there are now 54,000 trophies waiting distribution. Of these 10,000 are held guns. They are now stored in New Jersey.

Re-apportionment Legislation

Nothing has as yet been done about re-apportionment legislation made necessary under the 1920 census. The house now has 435 members and bills introduced run all the way from keeping it at that figure to increasing it to 400. Under any of the proposed bills Massachusetts would gain one member, and unless the increase is to the highest possible notch, Maine will lose one member. Connecticut will gain a new member of congress, anyhow, but other states may depend on the rate of apportionment.

Disarmament Conference

When the proposed disarmament conference is held in Washington it is probable that the suggestion of President Harding will be adopted and that the conference will be conducted in the English language instead of in French, which up to this time has been the language of diplomacy for many years. This will not put other countries to the disadvantage the United States usually labors under, when French is spoken, for all Europeans are linguists, and the educated man who does not understand and speak English, at least to a fair degree, is rare. On the other hand, the Americans, who may be selected to act in behalf of the United States on account of their leadership and great ability, would probably hear and talk only through official interpreters. Senator Lodge is a notable exception, as he is a thorough French scholar and speaks it fluently. Mr. Harding's suggestion seems

REVERE, Aug. 13.—A section of Shirley avenue was thrown into a lurch yesterday when Harold Carr, a vaudeville actor, appeared at the home of his wife, Gladys, who is living with her mother, Mrs. Nellie Frank, at 18 Shirley ave., and in an alleged attempt to kidnap his little boy, Kenneth, picked up another child by mistake.

The child seized in the excitement was Dorothy Morris, aged 4, and Carr was forced to flee with his two companions in an automobile from Mrs. Myrtle Morris, mother of the little one, who also lives at 18 Shirley ave., his wife and mother-in-law.

When the three men arrived in the car the Morris child was at play in the rear yard clad in a bathing suit, and it is thought that this attire caused Carr to mistake the child for his own. Mrs. Morris shouted when she saw the man pick up her little girl and hurry toward the street. Her cries attracted the attention of Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Frank. They joined in the race after Carr. Kenneth, aged 2, the son of Carr, was at his mother's side.

The commotion attracted Norman Waxler, who conducts a store at Shirley ave. Waxler shouted, "What are you doing with the little Morris girl?" and at this Carr is said to have realized it was not his child.

At the time the women were making a strenuous effort to wrest the girl away, Carr laid the child down and fled into the waiting automobile with his two friends.

Later in the day Mrs. Frank appeared at the Chelsea court and made a complaint of assault and battery against Carr.

Hungarian Assembly Approves Peace Resolution Adopted by U. S. Congress

Government Authorized to Negotiate Treaty of Peace With Washington

BUDAPEST, Aug. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—Unanimous approval of the peace resolution adopted by the United States congress, early in July has been voted by the Hungarian national assembly. The government is authorized to negotiate a treaty of peace with Washington.

The peace resolution passed by congress and signed on July 2 by President Harding declared the state of war between Germany and the United States and Austria-Hungary and the United States at an end. The resolution reserved to the United States and its nationals, all rights they might be entitled to under the armistice and the treaties of peace. The treaty of Trianon, the Hungarian peace treaty, became effective July 25 by formal acceptance of exchanges of ratifications on the part of the allied powers and Hungary, and was declared law in Hungary by publication of the text on Aug. 2.

WARNS OF INCREASE IN WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Warning of the danger of a tremendous increase in the white slave trafficking throughout the world was given yesterday by Major Bascom Johnson, attorney for the American Social Hygiene association. He has just returned from Geneva where he represented the association at the international conference on traffic in women and children, called by the League of Nations.

"Owing to conditions following the war the trade is bound to flourish unless the nations of the world agree on stern repressive measures," he declared. "The general opening of frontiers and the increase in the number of women and girls who can neither marry nor find adequate means of support are the main contributing causes."

TROOPERS AND SHERIFFS ARE DISARMED

Mr. Gallagher was quartered aboard the Eagle boat No. 19, which was accompanied by two other Eagle boats, with Arthur C. Sullivan, ensign, U. S. N. R. P. on board No. 22. On the target range, off Cape Cod, during the latter part of this week, Mr. Gallagher won a bulls-eye on a target, 12x15 feet at a range of 2000 yards, with a 4-inch gun. In the target practice by the Eagle boats there were 72 shots fired.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Officers of Division 5, together with federal prohibition enforcement agents, armed with a search warrant, raided the fourth floor of the building at 43 Way street, South End, yesterday afternoon and seized large quantities of liquor. According to the police, the seizure included 40 gallons of moonshine whiskey in five-gallon cans, 10 gallons of whiskey in one-gallon cans, seven carboys containing 40 gallons of whiskey, two stills, two gas stoves and two boxes of prunes. Besides this, 18 barrels of mash found there, were destroyed.

DO YOU CORSET YOURSELF CORRECTLY?

"There is one woman out of a hundred who corsets herself correctly." This is the statement of Miss Kathryn Walker, corseteer of Savannah, Ga. Miss Walker has her own shop in which corsets are handled exclusively. Her specialty, however, is making hospital fittings. She makes a daily trip to the various hospitals of the city where she visits convalescent patients and fits them correctly. "No matter how slender the woman, she should never lace her corset with less than two laces. One should extend from the top to about an inch below the waist line. A second lace should be used over the hips. "Very stout women would be wise to use three laces. The top one should extend to about two inches above the waist line. Another should extend from the bottom to about two inches below the waist line and a third should be right at the waist."

Thus a corset can be comfortably adjusted. "The corset," says Miss Walker, "should be pulled well down in place before it is adjusted and should be readjusted every day for even very slender figures. "One of the greatest mistakes of the slender woman that she believes because she is slender she need not be so careful about readjusting her corset. It's just as necessary to the smartness of her figure as it is for the heavier woman."

SPEAKING ABOUT DIME NOVELS!

MALCOLM ETHERIDGE By Newspaper Enterprise MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 12.—Malcolm Etheridge, 18, is mysteriously missing from his home here, following more than a month of combat with bandits.

The bandits bound and gagged Etheridge on June 27 when they robbed the filling station at which he worked. Later the boy identified one of the men at the police station. Following identification he received threats of death over the telephone, and three nights after the robbery he was kidnapped from his home. Next day he was found, drugged and gagged in a vacant building on the outskirts of the city. From that time on, until his latest disappearance, he has been threatened by anonymous telephone calls and letters. Police twice removed him from the state as a matter of precaution. Now they wonder if Malcolm was just practicing for the movies.

dent is only one of several similar cases where the same group, or another group, under pretence of being representatives of the United States government, staged "raids" on the residences of people of this section. It is intimated that in most, if not all cases preceding the one in question, which is said to have occurred on Monday of the present week, the victims of the "gyp" feared to protest against the invasions. They were not sure that they would be able to convince the authorities that they acquired the whiskey or other liquor in a legal manner. It is claimed, and consequently remained "mum," causing repeated depredations.

However, in the latest instance of this daring form of larceny, it is understood that a complaint was lodged with the police when it was discovered by communication with the federal authorities that the "raiders" were in reality imposters. Warrants have been issued, it is said, and the arrests are expected in the immediate future. If not some time today. Four men are said to be implicated in the exploit, although it is understood that not all participated in the actual entrance of the Dracut Centre residence. Part of the group, according to the report were otherwise connected with the affair.

RAIDS BY LIQUOR AND VICE SQUADS

Extreme activity on the part of the liquor and vice squads was shown yesterday evening, when a number of places in the city were raided, and a quantity of mash was discovered. Officer Francis Moore of the vice squad, Officer Michael H. Winn of the liquor squad, and Officer Goggin participated in the raids, two of which were on Suffolk street, one on Adams street, and one on Fenwick street. At one Adams street residence four barrels of mash were found, together with part of a still. Two barrels of mash were discovered on Suffolk street at one place, but the other revealed nothing, as did the Fenwick street place. As none of the completed product could be unearthed in any instance, no seizures were made, despite a rigid search of the premises in each case. Clues, however, are said to be in the hands of the officers, which will result in more fruitful searches in the near future.

WELL MAY DATE BACK TO MAKES $200 A MONTH "WITCHCRAFT" DAYS

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Well, well, well! A Boston policeman in Tremont row yesterday nearly fell into a well which it is thought may date from the period of Quaker and witchcraft persecution, more than 250 years ago. The policeman who had the adventure was Patrolman Paul Crowley. In walking along the row yesterday morning he felt a section of the sidewalk sinking beneath his feet in front of No. 8, opposite Hanover st. He jumped to firmer ground. An investigation of the cave-in showed a well 10 feet in depth and four feet in diameter, four feet below the sidewalk, covered by two slabs of stone, one of which had gradually worked over till one end of it had sunk down into the opening causing the pavement above to give way.

As Gov. John Endicott, the uncompromising pursuer of Quakers and witches, was one of the early householders on Tremont row, about opposite Hanover st., it is considered possible that the well may have been in his front yard, though it is more probable that the well was outside the premises of Endicott or some later owner of the estate, by the side of the road, as was often the case in early Boston, and that it contained a town pump which supplied those in the neighborhood with water for household purposes before the city had its present form of water supply. The city paving department, having been notified of the cave-in, a squad of workers repaired the sidewalk over the well. The well's still there, however.

CHEATING MOTORISTS

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Lillian Lo Bellow, granted a divorce today from Anthony Lo Bellow, employee of a gasoline filling station, will receive $75 a month alimony because, she said, her husband makes $200 extra a month by cheating motorists. "How can you expect your husband to pay $75 a month alimony when his salary is only $165 a month?" the judge asked Mrs. Lo Bellow. "Oh, he makes about $200 a month extra," the witness answered. "Motorists pay for the amount of gasoline they order, not for the amount the filler puts in their tanks. In this difference is where my husband makes his extra money."

APPARENT RED CROSS / SHORTAGE OF $11,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—National Red Cross officials have under investigation an apparent shortage of $11,000 in funds kept in the Washington headquarters, according to a statement issued by Dr. Livingston Farrand. A discrepancy discovered during regular audits resulted in disclosing the possibility that the money might have been abstracted from a special fund kept for the purchase of office supplies and supplies. It was said, but the Red Cross was declared to be fully protected against loss by bonding company obligation. Special examiners working on the records in conjunction with all the employees responsible for safe keeping of the funds have not definitely established the existence of shortage.

Two operators of motor vehicles paid fines in the police court this morning. Alvin Philbert, of Manchester, N. H., was arrested yesterday by Officer Kelly, and was charged this morning with operating a motorcycle without being registered, and with not having a proper license. Officer Hamilton made the arrest.

Althor Riel was fined $50 for non-support of his wife, and appealed. Officers Search Roadside and Underbrush Between Nantasket and Hingham

NANTASKET, Aug. 13.—Metropolitan park policemen armed with flashlights searched the roadside and underbrush between Nantasket and Hingham for several hours before daylight in an unsuccessful quest for $3400 in cash alleged to have been stolen from an automobile here last night.

Four Boston men were in district court at Allston, charged with larceny in connection with the alleged theft and were held in $5000 bonds each for a later hearing.

According to the police, Joseph E. Legendre, an employee of the Inter-City Trust, a Boston real estate concern, reported that he left a bag containing the $3400 cash and war savings stamps and securities valued at $300 more in his automobile while he visited an amusement resort last evening. When he returned to the machine the bag was gone. An automobile truck which had just driven away from the place was followed and overtaken in Hingham, where the four occupants were arrested. Legendre's bag and the war stamps and securities were found on the truck, the officers said, but the money was missing.
